Man's bravery installs 'Man's Dignity' sign

By PAT FOLEY
of the Press-Record

A large outline of the logo adopted by the St. Elizabeth Medical Center was put into place Wednesday despite chilling temperature accompanied by gusty winds.

"Our logo (a bird holding an olive branch) is the symbol of the dignity of man," commented Sister Mary Thomas, president of the medical center. "The bird is of earth that soars in the skies. Man is of body and spirit grasped by God."

The eight-by-eight foot metal sign is backlit with neon lighting and will be illuminated each evening. The framework behind the sign, photo at right, was used as support during the hoisting operation.

The sign is on the north side of the medical center above the intersection of Madison and Niedringhaus avenues.

The bird logo is used on medical center stationery and other items as well as being displayed on the center's flag flown along the Madison Avenue side of the building complex.

The long, arm-like boom, in both photos, not only suspended the sign while being installed, but held the worker as well.

More than a little bravery was required for the task, spectators concluded.

Fuel tax bonds to give overpass a 'green light'

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"Hallelujah," was the word Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler used Tuesday night as the city council unanimously voted to accept the low bid for constructing a 19th Street overpass and to finance the structure without increasing property taxes.

The council agreed to supplement the various grants and gifts it has received for the overpass by issuing approximately $750,000 in general obligation bonds and repaying the bonds over the next 20 years using motor fuel tax revenues.

The method of financing is similar to the method used for constructing Maryville Road, where the city pays $120,000 per year to the county from motor fuel taxes until the county has been repaid for extending Maryville Road through the city.

After the council unanimously accepted a construction bid from I. E. Millstone Construction Co. of St. Louis of $5,942,363 to construct the 19th Street overpass, Mayor Schuler commented,

"Very little of the $5.9 million has been city money, thus far (Various grants and gifts have made $5,548,200 available to the city.)"

"It is time that the city come up with its proportionate amount. We are about $350,000 short of meeting the bid and are obligated for about $400,000 for construction engineering (an on-site resident engineer during the construction)," Schuler said.

About three months ago, the council voted to contract with Ken Keene & Associates of Collinsville as the resident construction engineers for the overpass.

Schuler suggested that repaying a general obligation bond issue for the shortage would cost the city about $60,000 to $70,000 per year from motor fuel taxes for the next 20 years.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer said he has completed a study of the motor fuel tax fund and estimates the city will receive about $500,000 this year and he expects that amount to increase in subsequent years.

Cities gearing for industry at Depot and Port

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

A joint purchase of 276 acres of the Granite City Army Installation declared surplus by the U.S. government is proceeding "full-speed ahead," according to Lance Callis, city attorney for Granite City.

"This is one of the two most important priorities I have been given by Mayor (Paul) Schuler—this and the overpass," he said.

He noted the purchase is a joint venture involving Granite City, Madison and the Tri-City Regional Port District. Venice is affected to a lesser extent, since a small portion of the property is within the Venice city limits, but the city is not expected at this time to become involved in the $3 million purchase.

"I think the basic decision has been made to acquire the property," Callis said as he resigned his position on the port district's board of commissioners at Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting.

"I am not resigning due to any conflict of interest. I am resigning for a matter of available time. This thing will take up a great deal of time," Callis told the Press-Record. The council accepted his resignation from the port board. Callis said Madison and the port district have agreed that Granite City is the "convenient" entity to purchase the property on behalf of all three since Granite City is the only one with home-rule powers.

"As a home rule unit, we can issue general obligation bonds for the purchase, without a referendum, and repay the bonds from revenues generated by leasing buildings and land to businesses."

"Madison and Venice have the capability of issuing general obligation bonds but would need public referendums," Callis explained.

If the city purchased the property, Madison and the port district would pay proportionate shares of the cost. "It works out to $1 million each for Granite City, Madison and the Port, give or take about 10 percent," Callis said.

The problem requiring most of Callis' time is preparing a bond ordinance to purchase property which is within the city limits of Madison and Venice.

"It has never been done before, but under the 1970 state constitution, a lot of things which have not been done before are now possible, especially for hope-rules cities. We have preliminary legal opinions from Chapman & Outler (bonding attorneys in Chicago) and another bonding specialist that there doesn't seem to be any legal impediment to doing it, as yet," Callis stated.

"There is no question we have an agreement that Granite City will purchase the property on behalf of the three entities. The details of how it will be managed and developed have not been worked out between the bodies," he added.

He noted that under current planning, Granite City will receive property containing about 68 percent of the enclosed warehouses being declared surplus. Madison will receive the remainder of the warehouses, plus some property, and the port district will have all of the property between the levee and the Chain of Rocks Canal, as well as the bulk of the undeveloped ground.

"Several companies are showing a very strong interest" in locating in the proposed development area, he said, adding that the port district is negotiating with one firm which would like to construct a facility for mixing high-sulfur Illinois coal with low-sulfur

Await ruling on fee

Critics of a bond issue legal fee paid to the law firm of City Attorney Lance Callis are continuing their contacts with Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas Byron, who may issue his official opinion on the fee next week.

Civil action on the topic also is under active consideration by those opposing the fee.

Participants in a press conference Jan. 10 were Madison County Board Member Daniel Partney, Street Supt. Lionel Portwell, Aldermen Charles Douglas, Margaret Nonn and Lloyd Bailey.

The legal fee related to work done on a bond issue through which lower-than-usual home mortgage interest was obtained for Granite City families.

The critics say they favor the bond issue but believe that the legal fee, if essential, should have gone to a lawyer other than the city attorney; the latter could do the work but not at pay beyond his city salary, they contend. He disagrees with the five, as did the state's attorney's office in its initial ruling. More information then was submitted, leading to the decision to issue a second ruling.

The five cite numerous documents that they say show that the entire bond issue is a city activity, with all funds under city control; that the city attorney is a city officer; and that city officers are barred by state law from participating financially in such programs enacted by the city. The city attorney contends there is much precedent to the contrary of their conclusion. The fee was $15,000.

Labor interviews

Candidates seeking office in the March primary election are invited to address the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday in the Labor Temple, hall two.

Interviews will include candidates for county office, judge, precinct committeeman and other posts.

No invitations are being sent out and anyone who would like to try for the support of organized labor is invited to speak to the labor representatives, a spokesman said.

There will be no reservations and candidates will be heard on a "first-come, first-served basis," he added.

Mayor race has 'new look'

There has been a general assumption that Mayor Paul Schuler and Daniel Partney would be rivals again in the 1981 election but a third individual currently is being mentioned by many persons.

He is Paul Ray Bowler, a former teacher active in operation of the Bowler trucking firm. A Seventh Ward alderman since April 1977, he is chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council and thus involved in shaping the annual city governmental budget.

Partney, a member of the Madison County Board, is still regarded as a probable mayor candidate, having come relatively close to winning three years ago.

Mayor Schuler during the fall contacted precinct committeemen regarding his plans to seek a third four-year term, and a meeting was held on city accomplishments and improvements.

He later is said to have decided tentatively against running but, of course, could change his mind. Meanwhile, Bowler is being mentioned by various persons, either on a "trial balloon" or serious basis.

Numerous Madison council members and other city officials attended the ceremonies.

Break ground for big Madison terminal

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Official groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Kreider Truck Service, Inc., were held here at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

The new facility will be located on 10 acres of land near the intersection of Collinsville and Ewing Avenues and the Illinois Central Gulf railroad tracks in Madison.

The terminal is scheduled to be in operation by August.

A new terminal will be built, with 14,000 square feet of space in a 200 foot by 70 foot building.

A railroad spur will also be constructed for bulk distribution directly off of railroad cars.

The transfer of bulk commodities will be done in a closed system. The company hauls stable bulk food products. The front of the structure will face Collinsville Avenues Construction cost will run between $670,000 and $750,000.

A spokesman for the company said the building will be attractive and that the firm uses clean, late model trucks. The bulk commodities specialized carrier will operate 44 stainless steel tank trucks and 45 aluminum dry bulk flat trucks.

Kreider is presently located at 8003 Collinsville Road.

The present location is too small for the company's expansion needs.

Kreider currently employs 75 people and many of them will work in the new facility.

"We are looking forward to being located in Madison. Everyone we have dealt with here has simply gone out of their way to make us feel welcome," Joseph H. Behnken, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said.

"Our city is very proud to have the new trucking firm. We are fortunate to have this property available for them. It, of course, will mean some new jobs from time to time for Madison residents, but as I told Joe (Behnken) we don't expect his firm to hire anyone who is not fully qualified," Madison Mayor Mike Sasysk said.

The company policy is to hire local people when at all possible, Behnken said.

The parent company is Behnken Truck Service, Inc., with headquarters in New Athens, Ill. The company also operates truck terminals in Decatur, Ill., and Lafayette, Ind.

Officers of the company attending the groundbreaking included Richard C. Kizer, vice-president, and John A. Behnken and John E. Behnken, both members of the board of directors. Bauer Brothers Construction Co. of Belleville is the contractor.

Illinois Bell technological advances; telephones here increase to 48,349

In 1979, Illinois Bell climaxed its growth era of the 1970s with further improvement of products and services—while laying the groundwork for continuing change and technological advances in the 1980s.

Telephone growth during 1979 continued despite slowing of the general economy. Rapid inflation and the disruptive effects of energy shortages were major factors affecting business conditions.

Kenneth Evers, Illinois Bell manager in Granite City, characterizes the past year as a period of progress and preparation.

"We changed our organizational structure to meet the challenge of change; we continued to provide improved products and services; and we expanded our corporate policy to deal with energy shortages," he said.

In December, Illinois Bell asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for its first general rate increase in six years. About 70 percent of the proposed seven percent increase in revenues would apply to optional services.

Company President Charles Marshall said, "Illinois Bell can't supply service for the eighties at mid-seventies prices. We're asking for higher rates to keep the quality of the service as good in the future as it is today."

"In spite of stringent cost-cutting and productivity increases, our costs keep going up," Marshall said.

"While consumer goods and services, in general, have risen 118 percent since 1967, telephone prices have risen an average of only 29 percent."

Evers said that, for the 10th straight year, Illinois Bell spent more than $1 million a day on construction. In 1979, the company spent a total of $640 million, or $2.5 million each working day, on construction to maintain and improve telephone service.

Total construction outlay was 7.6 percent more than in 1978 and almost twice the $357 million spent in 1969.

During the year, the number of telephones in service to Illinois Bell customers increased to more than 8.30 million from 8.08 million at the end of 1978. There had been 5.84 million phones in service in Illinois Bell Territory at the beginning of the decade.

The number of telephones in the Granite City area at year's end was 48,349, an increase of 1,264 over 1978.

Total Bell System expenditures in Illinois during 1979 were estimated at more than $2.5 billion, excluding the Illinois Bell construction expenditures. This includes outlays for wages, taxes and purchases.

In the Granite City area, these payments totaled $1,855,814.

At the end of 1979, the company had 38,600 employees, an increase of 700 workers during the year but 3,000 less than in 1969.

"One of the major reasons telephone rates have remained a bargain is that Illinois Bell's productivity has improved at a rate more than twice the national average," Evers said. "We have also introduced cost-saving technology to offset part of the effects of inflation."

Illinois Bell's activities in the Granite City area in 1979 were highlighted by the construction of an addition to the plant center at 2241 Adams St.

Customers are taking increasing advantage of one-stop service in the company's statewide network of 75 PhoneCenter Stores, which offer all the services of a telephone business office plus a variety of Design Line telephones.

A PhoneCenter Store is located at 2 Crossroads Plaza for customers in the local area.

In 1979, Illinois Bell and its customers were involved in the first year of a two-year trial for directory assistance charging. Call volumes to directory assistance declined 21 percent compared to last year, as the result of a 20-cent charge for each call over eight made by a customer in any month.

The plan also gave all residence and most business customers a 25-cent credit each month.

An average of 8.9 percent of residence customers and 14.6 percent of business customers received charges for making more than eight calls monthly to directory assistance.

As a result of savings realized under the plan, the Illinois Commerce Commission in November ordered the company to refund $1.76 to each customer now receiving the 25-cent credit.

At a hearing in Washington in April, Illinois Bell President Marshall told a Senate Subcommittee on Communications that the nation's telephone users want continued assurance that they can call anywhere, instantly and at a price within their means. The panel was hearing testimony on two bills to amend the Communications Act of 1934.

On Nov. 17, the company's 100th Electronic Switching System (ESS) office was put into service in Danville, a hundred years after the installation of the town's first phone.

During the year, 14 new ESS units were placed in service, 10 replacing electromechanical units and four representing entirely new switching units. Two additions were made to existing ESS units.

More than one-third of Illinois Bell customers are now served by electronic switching equipment.

In 1979, conversion to Zero-Plus calling neared completion with the addition of customers in the 217 and 618 area codes.

These customers can now dial their own collect, person-to-person, credit card and third number calls. The calls are completed 40 percent faster with Zero-Plus calling.

Nearly 98 percent (97.9) of Illinois Bell customers now have Zero-Plus calling.

Energy consumption was 2.6 percent below the 1978 level. Overall, Illinois Bell used nearly 10 percent less energy than it did in 1973, the year of the oil embargo, despite a 23.6 percent growth in total telephones served.

The company expanded its energy conservation policy to cover every aspect of energy consumption from gasoline to temperature control in buildings to the logistic of employees getting back and forth to work.

One aspect of the energy conservation program was a one-year test of gasoline in a controlled experiment in Peoria involving 30 company vehicles. The tests were seeking to determine the effect of gasoline on mileage, maintenance and costs.

Test results indicate that vehicles using gasoline attained better mileage than vehicle using regular gasoline and required less maintenance.

The Federal Communications Commission and the Illinois Commerce Commission have granted Illinois Bell and American Telephone & Telegraph Company a 90-day extension of the successful Advanced Mobile Phone Service (AMPS) developmental trial in Chicago. AMPS would allow several hundred thousand customers to have phones in their cars in the Chicago area compared to the 960 Chicago customers who have conventional mobile service today.

The company also introduced a new measured service concept in selected communities on an optional basis.

Under this plan, local calls are billed according to frequency, length, distance and—in some communities—time of the day, similar to the way long distance calls are billed.

A new product introduced during the year was the Dialog Intercom System, a flexible intercom system capable of handling up to 52 telephones and four intercom conversations at one time without major equipment change.

The Horizon Communications System, IBM's latest entry in the terminal equipment market, is designed for customers who need between 20 and 30 lines and up to 80 telephones.

Illinois Bell also introduced a new data transmission service, Dataphone II, which is designed to operate at speeds from 2,400 to 9,600 bits per second. It should be especially useful to customers whose businesses depend on efficient operation of private line synchronous data communications systems, Evers said.

Illinois Bell also announced a breakthrough in communications for the deaf and speech-impaired.

It introduced the Porta-Printer II, which consists of a portable typewriter keyboard and a reel of paper. Users dial the wanted number on any telephone, fit the telephone receiver into the Porta-Printer II, and carry on a conversation using the typewriter keyboard.

The unit, which is compatible with other teleprinters used by the disabled, is capable of sending and receiving messages at speeds up to 60 words per minute over regular telephone lines.

Pedestrian is beaten

Linda Mikula, Rural Route Two, Old Alton Road, Mitchell, was beaten along Old Alton Road near her home about 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Miss Mikula, a waitress at the 15-Cares Restaurant on West Chain of Rocks Road, said she left work about 10:45 p.m. and was driving home on Old Alton Road when her car had a flat tire just north of Interstate 270.

Since she was close to her home, she began walking along Old Alton Road, and told Madison County sheriff's deputies a man "came from nowhere" and struck her numerous times on her face. He then ran east, toward the railroad tracks.

Survivors said she did not know the man or know why he would beat her. She said she was sure he was not a customer of the restaurant where she works. She said the man did not attempt to rob her or otherwise molest her.

She suffered a small cut over her right eye, her right eye was swollen shut and there was swelling to her right cheek and upper lip. She went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she was treated, X-rayed and released.

Dr. Leland Holt will be honored

Several hundred veterinarians from around the state will honor Dr. and Mrs. Leland Holt, of Granite City, when the doctor concludes his year as president of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association (ISVMA).

Dr. Holt has been active in the association's leadership for many years and has served on its board of directors for three years.

Recognition of the achievements of Dr. Holt's year as president will take place at a special ceremony to be held in connection with the association's annual conference in Chicago.

The meeting will begin Friday at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare and continue until Monday.

Thirty-four speakers will present scientific papers on a variety of veterinary medical topics during the conference, in partial fulfillment of the profession's continuing education requirement.

Dr. Holt will receive up to 15 hours of continuing education credit for attending the convention.

Twenty hours are required every two years to maintain good standing in veterinary medicine.

Lectures will be supplemented by manufacturers' exhibits and demonstrations of the latest medical and surgical equipment available to modern veterinary medicine.

ISVMA is a professional association of 1,000 veterinarians dedicated to providing the best possible companion animal care, protecting the public health and ensuring a healthy food supply.

The ISVMA headquarters are located in Aurora.

Dr. Holt, operator and founder of the Bellemeire Animal Hospital, graduated from the University of Missouri as a doctor of veterinary medicine in 1955, served as county veterinarian of Clinton County in 1955-56, and in 1956 established Bellemeire Animal Hospital in Granite City.

He is a member, former secretary and past president of the Southern Illinois Veterinary Medical Association, a four-year board member of the Greater St. Louis Veterinary Medical Association, and a member of the Missouri Veterinary Medical Association, College of Veterinary Medicine, and a member of the Advisory Committee of the Parkland College Animal Technical program.

Dr. Holt is a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the Namekiki United Methodist Church. He and his wife, Frances, have five children.

'Heat's still on' Toffant pledges after Alton raid

"The heat's not off," Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant pledged after a gambling raid at the Alton Moose Lodge 951 Tuesday evening.

Toffant was angered, assistants say, by a comment a customer at the lodge made during the raid. One customer was quoted as saying, "We thought the heat was off."

La got news for them," Toffant said, adding, "The heat's been on since Dec. 1, 1978 (the date he was sworn in as sheriff)."

Toffant vowed he will uphold the laws against gambling to keep it from growing into "big-time gambling again in the county."

Toffant first earned a reputation as a fighter of gambling in his days as a captain with the Illinois

State Police. He alleged gambling then was controlled by organized crime, and said he does not want to see that happen again.

Undercover agents alleged making gambling purchases at the Alton Moose Lodge Tuesday afternoon. Sheriff's department detectives and agents of the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation raided the lodge about 6:45 p.m. Tuesday and confiscated slot-machine-type betting tickets and "tip boards."

No arrests were made, pending additional investigation by detectives.

The gambling raid was the fourth since December, when the Cottage Hills VWF, the Alton-Wood River Sportsman's Club and a Godfrey tavern were raided.

"The heat's still on," Toffant emphasized.

Youth charged in robbery of Pontoon Beach couple

Jeffrey Clark, 19, State Park Place, has been charged with two counts of armed robbery in connection with the robbery of two Pontoon Beach residents in the parking lot of Elsie's Lounge on Old Route 66 just west of Route 157 early Saturday. A 15-year-old Edwardsville boy, arrested with him faces juvenile court action in that incident.

William Knecht, 35, and Sharon Haefner, both of Tulip Court in Pontoon Beach, said they were preparing to enter an auto on the parking lot when a young man approached them, displayed a revolver with a long barrel and announced, "This is a stickup."

The victim said the man took $75 from Knecht's wallet and $4 from Mrs. Haefner's purse.

The robber got in a vehicle with another young man and they drove toward Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Deputies stopped a car near the university and arrested the two occupants a short time later. A gun was found under the driver's seat and a shotgun shell was on the dashboard, deputies alleged.

Clark's bond was set at $50,000 and he was held in the county jail at Edwardsville.

Are ingrown toenails hereditary?

By WILLIAM J. GOLDWAG, M.D.

Q. Two years ago, I developed an ingrown toenail on my left foot. Six months later, I got one on my right foot and finally had to have it operated on. Now, believe it or not, another is starting on my left big toe again.

Can this be inherited? My mother had the same trouble when she was 14 years old, and now that I'm 15 it looks like the same thing is happening to me. Any suggestions?

A. It isn't likely that there is an inheritance factor in ingrown toenails. When it occurs in relatively young people, the cause is often the fact that their feet (as well as the rest of them) are growing at such a fast rate that they end up wearing shoes that are too small. You may be the same size for several months, then during a growth spurt, your shoe size may increase by a whole size. If you bought a new pair of shoes just before this rapid change, you may be wearing short shoes just a few months later and there is a natural reluctance on the part of parents to go out and buy another pair of shoes when you just got a new pair.

If you press down on the front of the shoe and there is no space between the end of your big toe and the tip of your shoe, it's too small.

Very active youngsters playing sports a great deal are apt to slide forward in the shoe or sneaker and bump the toes against the tip of the shoe frequently. This can injure the end of the toe, especially the corner where the nail contacts the skin at the end of the toe.

I have often found that youngsters may be wearing the right size shoe, but socks that are too short, especially dislike the stretch socks which are always putting pressure on the end of the toes.

Perhaps the commonest reason for ingrown toenails is improper care of the toenails. People tend to cut them short and are particularly prone to cut the corners off to avoid leaving sharp edges that may tear socks. This runs the risk of injuring the skin fold at the corner of the nail. If you have cut the corner short, and the skin fold swells a little due to being injured, it will cover the end corner of the nail and as the nail grows it will burrow under the skin edge. More swelling results with a little infection adding to the problem, and you end up with a typical red, painful swollen ingrown toenail.

To void this situation, always cut the nail straight across. Don't dig into the corners or try to cut the nail short there.

If there is a tendency for the skin to cover the nail corner, tuck some cotton under the corner and side of the nail to keep the skin fold away from it. If you have trouble doing this or understanding it clearly, it might be wise to see a foot specialist, who can teach you to care for this area properly.

Q. I have a problem with my eyes. They hurt and burn down over my eyes so it sometimes looks as if I'm half asleep. It even feels like there's a weight on my upper lids when I open my eyes wide.

I'm afraid of having surgery around my eyes because my vision is so important to me. Is there anything else I can do?

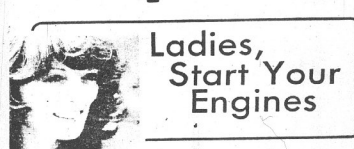

A. This kind of plastic surgery is extremely simple in the hands of a competent surgeon.

Many people have a prominent fat pad just above the upper eyelid and this can hang down over the lid. That, plus any excess skin, can actually weigh down the lid and make it very uncomfortable to keep the eyes open.

The surgery is a routine procedure done under local anesthesia to remove the fat and any excess skin. The incisions are hidden in the fold of the eyelid and are all but invisible after they heal. Plan on a week at the most of not looking too snappy, but from then on you will be very pleased with the result.

I don't know of any other way to eliminate the problem. The surgery has been doing to with your vision.

How much service is full service?

By SHIRLEY MULDOWNEY

Q. What should I expect from a full-service gasoline station?

A. Old-fashioned full service was becoming mini-service in a great many of the gasoline stations long before the trend toward self-service stations.

Today, if you can find a station where the attendants clean the windows, offer to check the oil and then take a quick look at the battery, radiator and windshield waster tank, you better stay with it. Usually such thorough routine work indicates equally thorough service work and that's a nice place to do business.

The check under the hood should include checking the oil levels in the engine, transmission and power steering, a quick look at the fan belts and radiator hoses, an inspection that can be made in a matter of seconds, wiping off the headlights, cleaning the front and rear windows and a visual check of the tires. If a tire looks low in pressure the attendant should ask if you'd like to have the pressure checked.

That's what I consider full service. Of course, I like to have a knowledgeable salesperson help me when I'm shopping for clothes, not just stand and wait to take my money.

Q. My new car has a spare tire that is considerably smaller than the four on the car. Is this tire safe? I don't see how I could drive the car on such a little tire.

A. There are three different types of temporary-use spare tires being used in cars. The foldable, which has been around for nearly 10 years, the high-pressure little tire, which is used most widely today, and the lightweight full-sized tire. The first two are aimed at reducing the total car weight as well as giving you room in the trunk. The lightweight spare is a weight-saver alone because it is the same size as the regular tires.

Goodyear, which makes all three types, says these tires are for limited use only. They are to be used until the damaged tire is repaired or replaced.

From your letter I assume you have one of the high pressure tires that look more like a little motorcycle tire than an auto tire.

Although the tire is smaller, it is specially designed to be inflated to almost twice the pressure of the normal tire. When in use it does not deflect as much therefore compensating some for its size.

If you follow the directions in the owner's manual, you will not have any problems and your little spare will provide big service.

Hangover hazards

By PHYLLIS WEAVER

Did you know that a hangover can be nearly as hazardous as the drinking spree itself?

As long as your system has alcohol in it, the blood's ability to carry oxygen to the brain and to other organs is lessened. This means your judgment is affected and your ability to coordinate is reduced.

If you can keep track, it takes about one hour for each ounce of toxic chemicals to clear out of your blood, via the liver. That means the more intake of alcohol, the longer the hangover. So if you go to bed late and get up early, your bloodstream is still loaded with alcohol, which now affects you as a depressant.

You wake up thirsty because alcohol absorbs the body's water. You have a headache caused by a diminished amount of fluid surrounding the brain, and your morning may feel the assault too.

To counteract this, eat something before, during or after drinking, and drink lots of water.

Something else, if you inhale marijuana smoke through an alcoholic drink, your blood alcohol will zoom. You may feel clear-headed, but don't drive.

The Coin Box

Upward spiral of gold and silver

By GARY L. PALMER

So fast is the price of precious metals — gold and silver — changing that it has the numismatic fraternity in a constant tizzy.

Coin dealers no longer dare put prices on coins in hobby publications.

The government has to stop offering its Bicentennial sets because the $12 price is completely out of whack since the set contains three coins which are 40 percent silver.

South Africa runs out of Kruggerands to sell.

New silver and gold coin value charts in the current Coin magazine are virtually worthless because they only calculate the silver value in a range of $14 to $21 an ounce and gold in a range from $360 to $425.

And the melting pots of silver refiners are turned on high as a steady stream of coins moves from individual and institutional hoards through middlemen to refiners.

Even Tiffany was in a tizzy. It had won the bid in 1978 to create the medals for the coming 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Taking into account inflation and upward price spirals the big jewelry firm calculated its bid on an estimated $180 an ounce when it would need to make the gold medals.

And silver wasn't even worth concentrating on then, it could be had for $5 an ounce!

Perhaps we're going to see a lot of records broken at the Olympics this year. After all, that gold, silver and bronze medal is going to literally be worth going faster!

Child 'spacing' a personal decision

By WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D.

A. There are a relatively young married couple, with one child who is just past a year old. My wife and I have been discussing the pros and cons of having children close together versus spacing them out by five or six years.

She's for the closeness in ages, and I kind of favor a more "leisurely" approach.

Which side are you on?

A. There are obvious advantages and disadvantages on both sides. Getting one's family on its way and then going on with one's own adult life has obvious attractions. So does the chance of having one or more at home over many years.

Some parents whose children's ages are spread out widely often say they wish their children had been born at more frequent intervals. Few of those with the close age pattern seem to be sorry, even though those early years with two or more to be fed, dressed and changed were probably tough ones.

What I or anyone else prefers isn't really important in your decision. The two of you will just have to talk it out, and decide what's best on the basis of your temperaments, financial situation and other factors, that are involved in your particular situation.

Q. A neighbor of ours uses the word "hyperkinetic" to describe his son. He almost says it with pride.

However, the boy is really nothing to be proud of. He is kind of wild, hard to talk to, and doesn't have very good behavior.

What does that word mean anyway?

A. "Hyperkinetic" is sometimes used interchangeably with "hyperactive". Some parents like to use it because it just seems a bit more palatable, more acceptable — perhaps because a lot of people don't know what it means.

Parents often prefer to soften the labels applied to their children. Examples come to mind like "educable" rather than "moronic" and "trainable" instead of "unbecomingly".

Just like retarded children, the hyperactive ones can of course be born into any family.

Q. A parent recently wrote to you about the fact that her 11-year-old is such a loner. Did it ever occur to her that he may be lonely because he's gifted and therefore very lonely? It's possible.

A. Of course, it is, but loneliness isn't necessarily a factor in the lives of gifted children. In fact most of them mix quite well and have no difficulty making friends among those who are equally bright or perhaps not on the same intellectual level.

Some children prefer to be alone out of choice or they spend a lot of time by themselves because they have difficulty making friends. It is important for parents to recognize what the causes are, and then seek solutions if it seems wise to do so.

Just because a child spends some time by himself or herself, his or her self or herself is not necessarily a sign of isolation. It may mean that he or she is without friends. A wise teacher can help parents get an accurate picture of a child's relationships.

Whitsell, Mrs. Hawkins lock horns over garage as a poll

Despite objections from the Democratic precinct committeeman, voters in Nameoki Township will vote again this March in the garage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weathers, 2419 Hemlock Ave.

Precinct Committeeman Helen Hawkins said she has asked that the polling place be moved because in the last election the garage was too cold and she had to rent two heaters, at her own expense, to keep the election judges warm.

She also alleged there is inadequate parking, the area is muddy and there were some "fender-bender" accidents during the last election.

Madison County Board Member Louis Whitsell, whose county board district includes that precinct, said he selected the garage at the request of the election judges from that precinct. "I polled the judges and all said they would prefer the Weathers garage," Whitsell said. They signed letters to that effect, which are on file with the county clerk, Whitsell added. Mrs. Hawkins disagreed, saying she polled the judges and all but one would prefer to have the poll at nearby Maryville School.

Although the school has been annexed to Granite City and is not in the precinct, it is used by Nameoki Precinct 11, under a state law which says polling places may be adjacent to the precinct, she said.

She contended there is no parking at the garage and Maryville School would have adequate parking, as well as heat.

Whitsell disagreed, saying, "I'm not too fond of having it at Maryville School. There are too many traffic problems. At Maryville, generally, the kids are in school, the parking lot is full and they put the judges at the end of the hall. It's not a convenient place."

Mrs. Hawkins said she probably will have to rent heaters again if the polling place is in the garage.

Whitsell says, "If she pays for the heaters out of her own pocket, it is her own fault. I always take all bills to the county and the county pays them. I told her to take her bills to the county clerk."

"I can see why Mrs. Hawkins might not want to have the poll in the Weathers garage again. Mrs. (Patricia) Weathers, who is an election judge there, is not a political supporter of hers," Whitsell concluded.

"We have to pay for the garage. We can get the school free, according to Supt. B.J. Davis. I know it's not much money, but every little bit counts," Mrs. Hawkins adds.

"We pay for the school. Every polling place receives $25 or $30 from the county. Nobody is going to get rich on that amount, but the schools have to pay for a custodian to clean up, so we pay them, too," Whitsell contends.

North speech students advance to sectionals

The Granite City High School North speech team that competed in the Illinois High School Association district speech tournament over the weekend received the third-place award with a total of 32 points, only two points behind first place.

Five students received medals and will advance to the sectional tournament on Saturday.

The students, their award and their specialty are: Kim Woodward, first place medal, original oratory; Mark Belleville, first place medal, humorous interpretation; Mark Kastelic, first place medal, extemporaneous speaking; and Lynda Loftus and Robert Slate, third place medals, dramatic duet acting. Seven students received recognition for advancing to the final rounds: Anne Fuller dramatic interpretation, Jeanne Trimmer oratorical declamation, George Compton original comedy, Chris Davis radio speaking, Amber Hogan and Kim Smith, humorous duet acting, and Lynda Loftus, prose reading.

Tax credit seminar on Feb. 14

Tax credits available to most employers, but often overlooked, will be reviewed during a free public meeting the Illinois Job Service will host "Valentine's Day, Thursday, Feb. 14, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Cynthia Dickey, a tax credit expert from the Bureau of Employment Security central office in Springfield, will conduct the seminar. "There is no time wasted. She goes right through it, point by point," one observer of a recent seminar she conducted, noted.

Tax credits for wages employers paid in 1979 and will pay in 1980, as affected by the Revenue Act of 1978, will be stressed. "You also will learn how you can hire more workers and pay less taxes," according to a spokesman.

Several jobs targeted for tax credits by the Department of Labor and Job Service include hiring youths, ages 16 through 18, in approved cooperative educational programs.

Credits also may be obtained by hiring handicapped individuals, recipients of Supplemental Security Income, Vietnam veterans, recipients of general assistance, ex-convicts and economically disadvantaged youths.

For many employers, hiring of persons from the above categories can result in a tax credit of up to $3,000 per year for workers paid $6,000 or more annually.

Job Service representatives also will be on hand to aid employers who wish to hire employees meeting tax credit guidelines.

No reservations are required and all employers in the Quad-City area are being invited, according to the spokesman. "You may have tax credits you are not aware of. I urge all to attend this concise informational seminar which will show an excellent way to reduce business operating costs," the spokesman said.

Classroom interviews by phone with area experts

"Armchair" interviews by students to help conserve gasoline was endorsed by the Granite City Board of Education. A "telexplorer" will be acquired.

Thomas C. Holloway, director of vocational and career education, said, "As you are aware, last year a telexplorer unit was borrowed from the Lewis and Clark Community College Career Guidance Center in order for our district to experiment with that system's Field Trip by Phone program.

"The unit was given to both high schools and each of the three junior highs and a presentation was given to the school district principals to gain their input concerning the use of this unit.

"Response from the teachers and principals has been extremely good. Since this unit can allow an entire classroom to interview someone by telephone, its use as a career education instrument is good.

"For example, while we had the unit a stenography class interviewed Senator Charles Percy's executive secretary, a health class was granted an interview with Cardinal Quarterback Jim Hart, and a chemistry class interviewed a chemical engineer at Monsanto Corp.

"Last year, the Career Guidance Center installed free of charge phone jacks in the junior and senior high schools.

"They are prepared to reimburse us for 50 percent of the phone jack installation in the elementary schools if we implement the program this year. Total cost for the unit is summarized below: Phone Jack installation (elementary schools) one-time charge, $351; one-time initial charge for the unit, $109; less reimbursement from Lewis and Clark of $175; initial cost to the district, $285.

"Monthly charge will be $22. "Our community has many resources that can be tapped through this program. Most business people are more than willing to be interviewed, especially when they can do it without leaving their place of business. Students will have an opportunity to broaden their experiences beyond what the classroom can offer," Holloway noted.

Use will be limited to local and Glenview telephone calls.

Long-term health care to be topic

The Madison County Local Impact Committee of the Health Systems Agency will hold the first of a series of health planning educational sessions on Tuesday, Feb. 19, at 7 p.m. at the SIUE University Center.

Milton Morris, chairman of the committee, said, "The Local Impact Committee wants to study and review the various health services provided to Madison County residents, formulate recommendations for action to address some of the inadequacies or duplication of services, and then get the job done."

Morris (452-5333) said the committee is "not acting in a vacuum but wants to form a partnership between providers of health services and consumers."

"Often," he said, "providers and consumers can help each other plan for better, more accessible and more affordable health services. This is what we want to do—form a working group of consumers and providers to insure that we have good health services that are available and affordable."

The committee will review Feb. 19 a five-year plan for long-term care services—those services normally provided by nursing homes, home health agencies and hospices.

The plan was developed by the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency. "As an example," Morris said, we will look at various demographic factors and how they affect the need for long-term care services.

"If we see some areas of concern, then we will want to address them. "Some people think health planning doesn't make sense," he said. "But when you go to buy groceries you first make a list of items needed, and you decide when you are going to go and how much you are going to spend. In effect, you are planning—and it makes a lot of sense."

"It is that same type of planning we are trying to do here with health services—answer and determine the who, what, when and how much."

In future months, the Local Impact Committee will look at acute care, mental health, and primary care services as well as Medicaid reimbursement.

The public will be welcome at the meetings.

500 shelters added; new phone lines; more buses go in the snow

"The Bi-State Development Agency last year worked hard at improving the service aspect of the transit system, and we succeeded in a number of ways," in the view of William J. Wilson, general manager of transit.

"Because of the shortage and increased price of gasoline, our ridership boomed in calendar year 1979," Wilson continued. "We made over nine million more passenger trips last year than we did in 1978. That is quite an increase, and it looks like it's just beginning."

"Aside from absorbing that massive increase in ridership, we have taken a number of steps to ensure that our passengers are getting better service," Wilson said.

"We installed over 500 additional passenger shelters last year. We implemented an undercover police security program on board buses and installed additional telephone lines and operators to handle calls for information."

"Bi-State also implemented other programs which are less visible to passengers but have a direct impact on the quality of transit service. During 1979, a new Hall Street garage facility in St. Louis was opened to relieve overcrowding at other garages, and to expand maintenance facilities.

"An extensive new training program for mechanics was started, and the agency implemented its first winter operations plan to ensure that buses are on the streets in spite of bad weather conditions."

"We are doing what we can right now to improve service for our passengers, like the installation in December of our new phone that allows deaf persons to get transit information."

"But equally important is preparing for the future mass transportation needs of the area," Wilson said.

"This year, we will buy new buses, build additional passenger shelters, provide new information aids for riders and begin work on a program to update our antiquated garage facilities."

"The ten-year garage program, which is just now beginning, will assure Bi-State's ability to provide adequate service in the 1980s and 1990s.

"We are in the process of completing a marketing study to learn how we can better provide for the transit needs of those we serve. And we are studying a downtown people mover system and a light rail system to determine if either or both are feasible for this area."

"It was a good year. We accomplished a lot in 1979, and we have prepared a firm foundation for meeting the future transit needs of our community. Things are really starting to happen at Bi-State."

Charles G. Houghton, executive director, who is responsible for the overall operation of both transit and development for Bi-State, expressed satisfaction with the progress the agency has made during his brief tenure.

Houghton praised Wilson's efforts in transit and said, "In the six months since we (Houghton and Wilson) have been with Bi-State, extensive changes have been made. Those changes are reflected directly in the improved level of service to our passengers."

"While it is a good beginning," Houghton said, "it is just that — a beginning. We expect the agency to move into a leadership role in the community in the years to come" in terms of the types of services offered to the public.

CUT WITH KNIFE

Group learns French Canadian way of life

Debbie Engelmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weidner, 1916 Joy Ave., Granite City, was one of 32 Central Methodist College (Fayette, Mo.) students who spent two weeks in Quebec, Canada, studying the culture of the Quebec Province.

There were required studies in addition to pursuing independent study in one of four areas — the separatist movement, the current central political concern in Canada; the influence of the Roman Catholic Church on the culture; the French language; and architecture, music, theater or winter sports.

Experiences ranged from sitting in on a session of the National Assembly to visiting the massive stone Citadel on the St. Lawrence, the shrine of St. Anne de Beaurap and a basilica equaling great European cathedrals in beauty, nestled in a village of 3,000. Also seen were the Olympic Park and Notre Dame Church.

In sharp contrast, the students found themselves crowded into the kitchen of a French-Canadian woman to sample her bread, baked in an outdoor oven and generously spread with butter. And they watched an Arcaid woman plying the craft of weaving, learned from her French-Indian mother.

Wherever they were, they were aware of participating in a culture decidedly different from their own.

A total of 380 students and 49 faculty participated in the "Janaway" program, Jan. 5-19, sponsored by Central College as an interim session included in the regular academic fees. Other sites included Washington, D.C., New York City, London, England, Williamsburg, Va., New Orleans, La., Denver, Colo., and Brooksville, Tampa, Miami and Key West, Fla.

"Off-campus study isn't unusual for a college to offer its students," commented Dr. Joe A. Howell, president. "What we are doing that sets us apart is offering a chance for all students and faculty to travel at minimal cost."

"From all indications and reports, Janaway has truly become a mark of distinction for Central Methodist College."

Dixon wants Export Trade Department

Alan J. Dixon, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, called Monday for creation of a cabinet post to administer America's export trade dealings.

Speaking at Stouffer's Riverfront Inn in St. Louis before the 87th annual convention of the Illinois Feed and Grain Association, Dixon said creating a "secretary of export trade" would be a "crucial first step" in developing an aggressive export policy for the nation.

"This is a new decade, a new opportunity to try new solutions to old problems," Dixon said.

"My proposal represents an unshakable commitment to addressing the problems of the balance of trade between the United States and other major industrial countries."

The proposal would not involve creation of a new level of bureaucracy, Dixon said. Rather, the Department of Export Trade would represent the enhancement to cabinet level of the Office of the Special Trade Representative, which now exists in the executive office of the president.

"It is time to give that office the prestige and leverage it needs to act effectively in behalf of American export trade," he said.

"It will signal to other countries that we intend to be dealt with on equal terms, that we will not accept unfair trade practices, that we must have the same access to foreign markets that our competitors have to ours."

Creation of the cabinet post would indicate to the world that the United States is able and willing to define its interests and act boldly to protect them, he said.

"The trade deficit is one of the major factors contributing to inflation. An aggressive policy to promote American products abroad must be developed if any significant change in that trade balance is to be achieved," Dixon said.

"In recent years, American agriculture has begun to penetrate foreign markets, traditionally protected by high tariffs. The United States exported $4.2 billion in agricultural products to Japan in 1979."

"But common sense tells us there is much room for improvement. If stockpiled grain could find a strong market abroad, for example, some inflationary pressure would be relieved."

"The latest inventory showed 6.7 billion bushels of corn alone being held in storage."

"In general, the country must adopt a more serious attitude toward export trade if the inflationary effects of the deficit position are to be halted."

Dixon urged that the U.S. explore "the new economic frontier" represented by trade with the People's Republic of China and with Third World nations.

"We must commit ourselves to a policy of increased agricultural export for the long term. In order to achieve this, we must give the special trade representative a status appropriate to the mission."

Pedestrian hit by truck

Michael Stram, 26, of 2003 Missouri Ave., suffered a broken left arm, abrasions to his left elbow, pain to his left shoulder and neck and a possible head injury when he was struck by the pickup truck of Ruby Arnold, 716 Twenty-sixth St., while crossing 20th Street at State Street at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

The driver said she was eastbound on 20th Street when the pedestrian stepped from the sidewalk into the crosswalk and she slid into him on the snow and ice. Stram said he stopped and looked both ways before entering the street, but did not see the oncoming pickup truck. The right front door area of the truck struck him, evidence indicated.

Stram, who said he lost consciousness for a time, was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was admitted.

Areawide sale for Leap Year

The first Quad-City areawide Leap Year Sale was the major topic at the Tuesday meeting of the Madison Business Association (MBA). The event is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 29, and Saturday, March 1.

Vince Saputo, acting secretary of the MBA and advertising manager of the Press-Record, reviewed details of the sale with the group.

Leap Year Sale ads will be featured in the Press-Record on Thursday, Feb. 28. Earl Harris is chairman of the event.

The recent MBA Twilight Jubilee Sale was discussed. Wayne Scannell, owner of Wayne's Men's Wear, and David Leipziger of Glik Department Stores and president of the MBA, said the sale was successful.

Christ Pashoff commented that through courtesy, alertness and friendliness, Madison merchants will continue to attract large numbers of customers.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk was critical of a letter that criticized the possible charge, by the city, for trash pickup. The letter was signed "several Madison merchants." He felt the merchants should have identified themselves or there should have been a simultaneous reply by the city.

President Leipziger commented on the large attendance at the meeting and thanked Jim Livingston and the City Area Chamber of Commerce for sending out meeting notices and making phone calls about the meeting.

The driver allegedly tried to flee on foot, but was stopped immediately. Force was necessary to subdue him and place him in a squad car, officers said.

He and the 16-year-old Granite City boy who was a passenger allegedly told police they had broken eggs on Allen's van and had thrown some inside and put some in the gasoline tank.

Police checked the van and found broken eggs inside, on the outside paint and around the gasoline tank opening.

Gundlach, who allegedly was the driver, was charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, fleeing from police, reckless driving and violating three stop signs.

He was released to his parents at 11:35 p.m. Monday after posting his driver's license and $100 cash for bail.

The juvenile was released to his parents on $35 cash bond.

The Madison County clerk's office has filed two felony theft charges against an employee of the county circuit clerk's office, alleging that she removed more than $150 cash from the clerk's main office, was named in informational documents filed Monday by the state's attorney's office in Madison County Circuit Court.

State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron said a two-month investigation was launched by the Madison County Sheriff's Department at the request of Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell.

During the investigation into an alleged Nov. 27, 1979, theft, a second theft occurred Jan. 21, it is alleged.

Although Byron declined to comment on the amount of money taken, he did say it was a sufficient amount to classify as a felony each time. The dividing line between a felony and a misdemeanor theft is $150.

He said additional details will be revealed at a preliminary hearing, which should be scheduled within two weeks.

Portell declined to comment on the issue, saying he would probably be called as a witness in the case and did not feel it was proper to discuss it.

Nameoki School to observe 50th year

Nameoki School will celebrate its 50th anniversary this year with a kick-off event to be attending a basketball game Friday night at Granite City High School North, according to Don Kopp, school principal.

Friday is to be designated "Nameoki Night" and students attending are requested to wear their Nameoki shirts and hats. Pupils must be accompanied by an adult and all are to meet in the high school front parking lot and enter together, the principal added.

He said a section will be reserved for the Nameoki delegation and they may make banners and placards for the evening event.

Cost of admission for adults is $2 and Nameoki students will be admitted free, Kopp said.

PTA President Mrs. June Branding and other committees are in the process of planning future programs marking the anniversary observance.

Past presidents of the PTA will be accorded special honors at the Founders Day affair scheduled for Feb. 19. The PTA unit was officially started 40 years ago, Mrs. Branding reports.

Nameoki School opened for the first day of school on Feb. 1, 1929.

The first graduation class, with nine students registered, as graduates, will be invited as special guests for the final celebration scheduled for May 13, according to the president.

City Budget—more questions than answers

As the budget preparation process for Granite City nears completion, members of the city council's finance committee are urging that three major questions be answered as soon as possible.

The first question is how much money each city department needs to operate for the new fiscal year. Second is how much of an increase union employees will receive in their new contracts and third is how much the city will have to pay for garbage collection.

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler, chairman of the finance committee, asked each city department head at Tuesday night's city council meeting to have the tentative budget for his department turned in to the city clerk by 5 p.m. Friday, and the council agreed with a motion setting that deadline.

Bowler also asked the city engineering department to have specifications for garbage collection prepared for legal publication in the Press-Record Feb. 21 so bids can be opened before the March 18 city council meeting. "Then, maybe, we can put together a budget," he said.

Those issues and questions income have a bearing on the status of negotiations now under way with city employees in unions.

About 25 policemen and firemen attended the city council session and a one and one-half hour discussion between city officials and union representatives which preceded it. The council meeting started 27 minutes late because of the closed talks.

While details of the closed meeting were not discussed, Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman Jr., chairman of the negotiating committee, announced at the city council meeting, "We have a tentative, fair agreement with several departments. Now we have to take a look at the money situation and we hope to report back to the council at the next meeting."

Mayor Paul Schuler added, "One big problem which is unresolved is the amount of money the city will have available in the next fiscal year. The corporate personal property tax replacement and other city income are uncertain." He suggested the issue be sent back to the negotiating committee for additional study and the aldermen concurred.

Alderman Bowler told Street Superintendent Lionel

Portell that he is "tired" of seeing claims for overtime on the street department's bill list everytime it snows or there is inclement weather.

Bowler contended the standard Teamsters union contract allows the supervisor to schedule some crews from Monday through Friday and others from Tuesday through Saturday without having to pay overtime, if the schedules are posted one week in advance.

Portell said that clause may be in the Teamsters' contract, but wording of the agreement with the street department may prohibit scheduling workers on Saturdays without paying overtime.

He agreed to meet with Alderman Warren Decatur of the negotiating and street and alley committees to study the contracts and see if such scheduling could eliminate Saturday overtime. "If it is in the contract, it's a good idea," Portell said.

Overpass

the city had been asked to contribute to the city for the overpass, as Granite City Steel did.

Alderman Paul Schuler responded, "We did, in the newspaper." (A front page article in the Press-Record Jan. 31 quoted the mayor as asking industries to contribute to the overpass fund to reduce the possibility of a utility tax being imposed.)

Schuler remarked, "We haven't heard a word from them. Feel free to contact them and ask for a donation," he told Poules.

Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward supported the motor fuel tax concept, saying, "We are at a point where we have to reach a decision. It is better to do this than put a bond on everyone's property."

Whitmer contended a property tax for the overpass would be unfair because the persons who use the new facility the most—residents of West Granite City and the downtown area—would pay the least taxes, while persons residing near Wilson Park and in the newer subdivisions, far from the overpass, would pay the most taxes, because their homes are assessed at higher valuations.

"I hate to use the motor fuel tax and take it away from the streets, but at least this way, everyone will pay about the same," Whitmer concluded.

Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward stated, "Initially, I did not feel I would approve of the use of motor fuel tax funds in this amount. However,

I do not think the residents of any ward can object to such an improvement for the good of the whole city."

"Granite City Steel is the only industry making a contribution and I think that is unfair to them," Douglas contended.

Whitmer warned that the city may have to issue more in bonds than the $750,000 estimated shortage, since every major municipal project has encountered construction change orders and cost overruns.

"Instead of $750,000 or more, we may be talking up to a million," Whitmer contended.

City Attorney Lance Callis is to prepare the final legal papers for the bond sale and a construction contract can be signed as soon as the funds from the bonds are available.

Callis said he also has received a favorable opinion from Chapman & Cutler, bonding attorneys, Chicago, on the $1.7 million in general obligation bonds the city is selling, which will be backed by Granite City Steel.

"This is a new thing. No one has ever sold municipal bonds, for municipal use, which are backed by an industry, but the bonding attorneys say it appears we can do it and if they approve it, we can sell the bonds," Callis told the Press-Record.

The council voted unanimously to accept Millstone's bid to construct the overpass and will take official action on the general obligation bonds when the proper resolutions and ordinances have been prepared.

Western coal to create a mixture which may be burned in power plants while still meeting pollution standards.

"Everything we (the attorneys) do will be subject to the approval of the bond attorneys, as well as the mayors and city councils. It is very complex and is going to take a tremendous amount of time among the attorneys involved," Callis stated.

"Not only are we doing something which has never been tried anywhere using city-backed bonds to purchase property in other cities—but the seller is the United States government, which has its own way of doing things."

"Only industrial development bonds, which have no obligation on the city, have been sold outside of the city limits and that is by a specified law."

GC cooperation with parks praised

Cooperation between Granite City and the park district was praised in a letter read to the city council Tuesday night from George Sykes, president of the Granite City Park Board.

In his letter, Sykes said cooperation by the city and City Clerk Robert W. Stevens in providing needed documents to park officials have made it possible to expand the boundaries of the park district until they are nearly co-terminous (identical) to the city boundaries.

Sykes also praised the city for its help and contribution in turning the site of an old gas station into a new mini-park at East 24th Street and Washington Avenue.

The street department hauled out old oil-soaked dirt and brought in clean fill, and then put new curbs and gutters around the small, triangle-shaped park.

The Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce donated shrubs and 'mums and city funds paid for seven trees, two benches, sod and white rock.

Sykes requested that the city pay $440 for its portion of the park and the aldermen agreed, noting they had budgeted up to $500 for the project.

Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward congratulated the park district on the mini-park, saying, "The park is a beautiful corner. It did a lot to improve that neighborhood. It was a nice job and it looks very good."

In other business, the council:

—Was told that the railroad and Illinois Department of Transportation plan to improve the Illinois Central Gulf crossing at 25th Street at no cost to the city. The project will cost a total of $41,385.

—Awarded a contract for $4,017 to Woody's municipal supply of Edwardsville for a snow plow and a contract for $3,450 to Transportation Equipment Co. of Vandalia for a salt and cinders spreader. Both were the only bidders for the items.

—Was told that Illinois Power Co. is working on land acquisition needed to put lights along the Nameoki River and has ordered the materials.

—Purchased an ozone monitor and recording equipment to replace older units operated by the city's Air Pollution Control Department. Paula Case, head of that department, said the items will be 100 percent federally funded from a supplemental grant.

—Received an unsigned complaint from some residents of the First Ward that a portion of Faith Avenue collects standing water and ice and does not have curbs, while all surrounding streets do.

Alderman Charles Douglas of that ward said several area streets have the same problem and he urged anyone having an objection to leave his name with the complaint "so, at least, we have someone to talk to about the complaint."

—Heard a report from Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer that some cars have been kept for city parking meters and has looted about 91 meters. Veizer said police are in the process of changing the locks on all the meters.

—Gave permission to about 400 Girl Scouts of River Bluffs Council Neighborhood to hold a parade at 9:30 a.m. March 8 from the police building along Madison Avenue and Niedringhaus Avenue to city hall, where the Girl Scout flag is to be flown on the city hall flagpole under the United States flag during Girl Scout Week.

—Annexed the home and property at 2328 Gary Ave. into the city at the request of the owners.

—Took under advisement plans by Wilbur Waggoner Trucking Co. to move large pieces of equipment in April along city streets from the port to the Air Products & Chemical Co. plant as part of a plant expansion. It was noted that telephone and utility lines will have to be raised for the equipment and a state permit will be required.

—The Granite City Township board of directors, by the council, sealed by the town board of trustees, to hold $15,816 from the town fund, $5,711 from the general assistance fund and $4,628 from federal revenue sharing grant funds.

—Gave authority to the Community Pride Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to hold an areawide cleanup day April 12 and authorized the street department to provide a truck for the project.

—Granted an excavation permit to Illinois Bell Telephone Co. for underground lines to service the Pontoon Plaza storage buildings.

—Promoted Carol Farley from assistant ambulance department clerk to clerk, replacing Claudia Kelly, who resigned.

—The salary for Mr. Farley's new position will be $900 a month.

—Asked the city engineer to investigate a complaint from a resident of the 1300 block of Newwood Drive that new portions of that street will not receive sewer service.

"This is the first I have heard of it," Mayor Paul Schuler said.

Fires up 2% last year, damage increases 24%

While the number of fire calls was up only two percent in 1979 from the prior year, the amount of damage from fires rose 24 percent, according to the annual fire report submitted to the Granite City Council by Fire Chief Don Parente Tuesday night.

The most striking difference, reflecting the rapid increase in property values, were building fires. There were 226 fires in buildings in 1979, up only one percent from 224 in the previous year, but damage to the structures rose 71 percent, from $218,610 in 1978 to $373,640 last year. Damage to the contents of the buildings declined, however, down 13 percent, from $248,650 in 1978 to $211,550 in 1979, the report shows.

The numbers of other types of fire calls in 1979 with 1978 in parentheses, were: motor vehicles 122 (125); rubbish and waste 220 (192); inhalator and rescue 30 (34); false alarms 72 (64); and other calls 167 (181).

Losses due to motor vehicle fires were down five percent, from $4,340 in 1978 to $4,275 last year. The number of ambulance calls to which fire department responded dropped two percent last year with 3,774, compared to 3,846 in 1978.

The total number of calls answered by fire and rescue vehicles was 837, up from 820 in 1978.

Chief Parente noted that the fire department also conducted fire drills and inspections during the year at all public and parochial schools.

Numerous demonstrations and talks on fire safety were given at civic and school organizations and familiarization tours for fire safety were taken by firemen at many industrial plants and commercial buildings.

Highlights of the year, Parente pointed out, included:

—One EMT (Emergency Medical Technician) completed his paramedic training and another is preparing to enter the course.

—Fifteen firemen and nine EMTs were certified by the state as Emergency Rescue Technicians and three firemen achieved the additional certification as instructors.

—Sixteen firemen are enrolled in a 96-hour Belleville Area College hydraulics course being taught at the main fire station.

—The state certified two EMTs as instructors of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and they have been teaching local groups CPR techniques.

—Four additional EMTs qualified during the year to teach EMT courses and refresher courses.

—Administrative personnel continue to appear on request at various community and group meetings to urge fire safety and prevention.

—Fire department medical personnel constructed 24 backboards and limb boards and donated them to the department for use on the ambulances.

—Studies were completed which will lead to telemetry equipment being added to the ambulance service soon, providing more efficient medical assistance at cardiac emergency scenes, Parente concluded.

On the road to the White House—torches, bands, whistle stops, planes

By DAVID M. MAXFIELD

Some presidential elections, like some candidates, make more of an impression than others. In fact, only a few of the 48 races for the White House are viewed by political historians as truly pivotal in the country's history.

Included in this group are well-known campaigns: Jefferson's candidacy in 1800, Lincoln's in 1860 and Franklin Roosevelt's quest for the presidency in 1932.

But other elections you might consider obscure are cited by historians as crucial to the country's political course.

For example, the campaign of 1824, a bitter contest, set the scene for populist Andrew Jackson's election four years later.

The 1840 election draws historians' attention because new campaign styles swept the nation.

And election year 1896 is chosen because William Jennings Bryan carried this call for economic reforms to the voters through 29 states via the first major whistle-stop campaign.

Each of the critical elections shared one or more characteristics, according to the historians:

—A momentous political or economic event which shaped the election and later national policies, such as the Great Crash in 1929 that propelled the United States into the Depression and led to Roosevelt's election.

—A significant shift in national political convictions or dissatisfaction with existing political leadership, as illustrated by the Republicans' return to the White House in 1953 after 20 years of Democratic control.

—The emergence of major national and emotional issues, including those raised when Richard M. Nixon faced Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968 during the Vietnam War.

—The appearance of a new political leader, as in 1960 when John F. Kennedy squared off against Nixon.

—The critical elections of the 19th Century set many political precedents that are still followed today, including the two-sometimes three-and-four-party system.

But in the nation's first presidential election, there was no real contest or politicking for office. In fact, there were no formal party organizations, no primaries, no nominating conventions, no campaigning, no national balloting and no opinion polls.

George Washington received a unanimous 69 votes from the first electoral college in 1789.

He and the other founding leaders believed political parties arose only when political institutions themselves were defective.

"If we mean to support liberty and independence, which it has cost us so much blood and treasure to establish," Washington said in 1790, "we must drive away the demon of party spirit and local reproach."

But a government of men was bound to create partisan divisions, and these became visible during the contest in 1800 between President John Adams, fighting for re-election, and Thomas Jefferson.

Jefferson's themes of decentralized government, agrarianism and individual liberties carried the election over Adams' call for continued leadership by an educated, land-holding elite.

The election was significant, not only because of debate on such issues as centralized government—debate that continues today—but also because presidential campaigning and the two-party system were set in motion.

The Jeffersonians organized campaign committees at the state and local levels, published partisan newspapers and circulated election pamphlets. Adams' Federalists, authors of "If Elected," were "too busy fighting among themselves to launch much of a campaign."

Personal abuse and name-calling, another staple of American politics, first appeared in the 1800 campaign, but did not flourish until the election of 1828, which pitted Andrew Jackson against John Quincy Adams.

Adams, known to his admirers as "Old Hickory," appealed to the western frontier settlers. Adams represented the aristocratic link to the nation's founders. "John Adams who can write and Andrew Jackson who can fight" acridly stated one of Jackson's slogans.

In some ways, the 1828 campaign was a bitter re-run of the controversial election four years earlier in which Jackson won a plurality but lost the popular vote but lacked the necessary electoral college majority.

That election, decided by the House of Representatives, went to Adams, and Jackson spent the four years accusing his rival of influence peddling and arranging a "corrupt bargain" to win in 1824.

Whatever the truth of the matter, appearances were convincing, and these events became the major issue in the 1828 election, which added new intensity to campaigning.

"Until 1828, the contests were quite reserved," says Herbert Collins, curator of the Smithsonian's National Museum of History and Technology, "but the election that year shifted politics from the parlors to the streets."

The Jacksonians were angered," Collins adds. "They were going to try an emotional appeal, reaching the grassroots through party organization and popular demonstrations." The first mass-oriented presidential campaign thus got under way.

But in terms of sheer extravagance, the election of 1840 easily surpassed the previous 11 elections. The campaign was dominated, not by the complicated banking issues of the day, but by the image created for one candidate by his savvy political advisers.

Martin Van Buren, who had managed Old Hickory's campaign and shaped his pitch to the common man, had himself been elected to the White House in 1836.

But in the tough, dramatic contest of 1840, Van Buren, the son of a truck farmer and tavern keeper, failed to make use of his own humble background.

In the meantime, a Baltimore newspaper suggested that Van Buren's opponent—Gen. William Henry Harrison—be given a "barrel of hard cider and a pension of two thousand a year...and he will sit the remainder of his days in a log cabin..."

Harrison actually was a member of one of Virginia's affluent, first families. But his supporters saw opportunity in the journalistic snoot, quickly turning the college-educated landowner into the "log-cabin, hard-cider candidate."

With that, the campaign took off. Log cabins were set up as election headquarters for Harrison and hard cider flowed at his rallies.

Hugh mass meetings, parades and processions, highlighted by torches, banners and the first extensive use of band music, all appealed, according to "If Elected...," to the emotions of the "downtrodden and seemingly forgotten men of the streets, hard hit by a depression."

The 1860 campaign, described by the book's authors as "perhaps the most serious election in American history," offered Americans four candidates.

The central contest was between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas, who differed principally on whether slavery should be barred from U.S. territories by popular sovereignty or by Congress.

The slavery issue was debated by orators for days at a time—10,000 speeches were made by Lincoln's backers in New York state alone—but compared to previous elections, the personalities of the candidates seldom came under attack.

Image-making continued to thrive, though, particularly around an "Honest Abe" the "Rail Splitter."

Asked whether he actually had split the rails set up at one rally, Lincoln is said to have replied, "I don't know if I split those rails, but I split many like 'em."

If this was one of the "truest presidential campaigns," as the new York World newspaper thought at the time, the aftermath was not, as the nation was torn apart by Civil War.

Like the campaign of 1860, the contest between William McKinley, the Republican representing business and industrial interests, and William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic allied with farm areas, came at a time of national crisis, this time economic. Bryan demanded social and fiscal reforms to counter the excesses of the Gilded Age.

Though Bryan lost the election, his campaign, one of the hardest ever fought in this country, laid the groundwork for the progressive changes to come in the early 1900s and later during Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal.

The campaign itself was innovative: Bryan traveled more than 18,000 miles by train to reach the voters.

The whistle stop continued as the principal vehicle of campaigning until just 20 years ago, when the airplane (Kennedy's "The Carolinian") took over the role.

Dr. York to lead week long seminar

Dr. Thurnace York, nationally known family consultant and current pastor, will lead specially designed evening sessions at Tri-City Tabernacle, 3400 Maryville Road, starting on Sunday, Feb. 10, at 7 o'clock.

Several leading professionals will participate in the four day seminar on subjects related to the family and personal growth. Dr. York commented, "In my national and international Better Life Seminar travel, I have seen the nuclear family bombarded with demands they are unable to solve for the lack of a known plan. In our seminars we share the 'how to' cope with poor self-image, that often leads to broken homes, drug abuse, suicide, homosexuality and other general unhappy human relationships."

The schedule of seminar topics covered at 7 o'clock each evening are: Sunday, Dr. York will speak on "4 Steps To A Happy Family"; and on Monday, he will speak on "Happy Homemakers"; Tuesday, Evelyn Manning, a California counselor and educator will speak on "Love-In"; Wednesday, "Martha's, Drugs and Christians" will help parents and students as Bill Farless, Scott Air Force instructor, and others share up to date information, and on Thursday the seminar will end in an adult celebration of fun and food at a "sweetheart banquet."

Lonnie Manning, new minister of music and former Heritage University Music department professor at PTL television network, will be arranging special music each night.

Pastor York reports that all sessions are open to the public.

Area citizens, ages 60 to 80, suffering from mild to moderate loss of memory can participate in a risk-free testing program sponsored by the Memory and Aging Project at the Washington University School of Medicine.

The tests are part of a research program funded by the National Institute of Health and include: a clinical interview, physical and mental status examinations, psychometric testing, EEG recordings of visual evoked responses, and a CAT scan (computerized axial tomography). Total cost of this testing would amount to $600 but is free to volunteer participants.

Primary goal of the study is to determine if the memory loss is a result of Alzheimer disease or some other ailment.

For information on how to participate, Quad-Cityans may call 314-454-2884 or write to the Memory and Aging Project, Box 8111, 660 S. Euclid, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. 63110.

Adapting to energy realities—topic of Sierra speaker

Dean Frame, a Sierra Club member and teacher for 15 years at Riverview Gardens, will present a program about man's energy requirements at the Feb. 11 meeting of the Piasa Palisades Sierra Club at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 4th and Alby streets, Alton.

Frame's program will begin with a historical look at man's energy use throughout his evolution.

He explains, "As population and sophistication grew, man's energy requirements expanded rapidly. Man's first controlled energy source was fire produce by burning wood."

"Eventually, energy demands led to the use of coal, oil, natural gas and finally the nuclear fission. Human energy demand is growing at a rate of 5 to 6 percent per year."

"To grasp the idea of exponential growth, one must realize that such a growth factor over a period of 10 to 12 years would mean the United States would consume as much electricity in the upcoming decade as it had consumed in all its history."

"The question becomes, can our present sources of fuel meet ever-rising demands for energy?"

This question is partially addressed by Frame in the second portion of his presentation, on "earth solar houses." Earth solar housing makes direct use of man's oldest energy source, the sun, and also utilizes man's oldest source of shelter, the earth.

"Earth solar homes are covered with earth on top and all sides except the south. The south side is left open for access to the winter sun, and most year-round heating and cooling," Frame comments.

70¢ of each state tax dollar now going to schools, aid, health, aged

More than two-thirds (70.6 percent) of every tax dollar appropriated in the last fiscal year, 1978-79, was returned to Illinois citizens in the form of state grant programs, Comptroller Roland W. Burris said this week.

His regular monthly fiscal report took a special look at the state's largest spending category — awards and grants — which fund public aid, education, mental health facilities, senior citizens tax relief, and scores of other direct-support programs for the public.

The fiscal report also reviewed the current fiscal health of the state, including a capsule view of Illinois' economic outlook and the unspectacular results of Christmas sales.

Here are some of the findings of the special study of last year's spending for awards and grants:

—More of the tax dollar than ever before is being spent for grant programs, in fact almost three times (2.9) the amount spent in FY 1970.

—Two agencies accounted for the bulk of that spending. More than 87 cents (87.3) of every tax dollar appropriated for state university programs and the Board of Higher Education.

Despite the double-up of (44.9 cents) and the State Board of Education (22.4).

—A close-up look at where the public aid money was spent shows that $1.886 billion, or 58.8 percent, of the aid grants went for medical assistance; 33.2 percent of $70 million went for aid to families with dependent children. The top expenditure — medical assistance — is 5.4 times greater than it was in FY 1970.

—Where did the State Board of Education grant dollars go?

Of the $1.903 billion spent in FY 1979, 71.4 percent of the total ($1.359 billion) was for general apportionment or aid to local schools under the school aid formula. The balance went for teachers' retirement, special and vocational education, pupil transportation, school lunches, and many other programs.

—More than half (51.8 percent) of the higher education grant dollar went for direct aid to community colleges, while another 35 percent was earmarked for scholarships for Illinoisans, with the balance expended for various state university programs and the Board of Higher Education.

Despite the double-up of school aid payments in November and the speed-up of January payments into December for Chicago schools, the state's general funds still reflect a strong fiscal position.

The Dec. 31, 1979, balance was $438 million. That is $229 million higher than the same month one year ago, and $48 million more than the balance of $390 million when the state ended last fiscal year on June 30, 1979.

If the school aid payments had not been speeded up, the December 1979 end-of-month balance would have been $556 million.

Though the month-end balances have been inflated by the new personal property tax replacement receipts, these balances would still be above the $500 million mark without the new tax income.

Here are some of the other highlights of the current report:

—Surplus money in the state's special fund and the debt service account now totals $110 million.

—Total state revenues from all sources in the first six months of FY 1980 reached $3.672 billion, which is $426 million or 13.1 percent over the same period last year. Income tax receipts are leading the surge, up 26.8 percent over last year.

—The Illinois economic picture grows a bit more disturbing. Christmas sales were unimpressive. Unemployment is up sharply. And the Chicago-area climb in the Consumer Price Index hit 15 percent, higher than the rest of the nation.

—Another barometer of the state's fiscal health is the status of all funds. The available balance of all funds on Dec. 31, 1979 was $2,068 billion, which is $325 million or 33.6 percent better than one year earlier.

—A look at general transactions shows, among other things that the average daily available balance in the general funds during the first six months of FY 1980 was $225 million.

—Illinoisans are buying less gasoline. The quick-scan comparison of cash receipts shows motor fuel tax revenue is down $22 million from last year at the end of the first six-month period. Since the gasoline tax is a fixed-rate levy based on gallonage rather than pump price, Illinoisans are clearly buying less gasoline than a year ago.

Task Force says need for 2nd new lock urgent

The Rural Transportation Advisory Task Force, in its final report released last week, recommends a national agricultural transportation policy which calls for the replacement of Alton Locks 26 with two chambers on an accelerated construction schedule.

The report stresses the need for a second lock chamber, 600 feet long, in addition to the currently authorized 1,200-foot chamber.

The report further recommends that Congress "immediately appropriate the necessary funds" for accelerate construction of the facility.

Recognizing the impacts of "long-lasting environmental disputes," the task force recommends that "executive and legislative branch procedures be improved to arrive at a better and more expeditious process for weighing economic and environmental considerations in projects of waterway development."

The report identifies Bonneville Lock and John Day Lock as potential bottlenecks on the Snake-Columbia River System, recommending that there be "coordinated examinations of the economic feasibility and environmental impacts of expanding the Bonneville Locks and of rehabilitating the John Day Dam."

The task force, co-chaired by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt, further recommends intermodal cooperation, the use of long-term loans to finance rail rehabilitation on lines serving ports, and the continuation of federal financial assistance for railroad branchline rehabilitation projects.

'Y' Sr. Citizens honor Grennells

The YMCA Senior Citizens club held a farewell luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grennell Friday, Feb. 1, who are leaving the local YMCA for a position in the YMCA in Ithaca, N.Y.

President Juanita Crawley led the group in the Lord's Prayer and the pledge to the flag. She thanked Mr. and Mrs. Grennell for all they have done for the senior citizens in the three and a half years they have been here.

Gifts were presented to the honorees from the club, as well as a decorated cake with the inscription "Thanks for everything, Goodbye-Good luck."

Mr. and Mrs. Grennell expressed their appreciation for the gifts and luncheon.

If detected in early stages, the disease can frequently be controlled by medication. The Pontoon Beach, Granite City and Madison Lions clubs are sponsoring the free testing program.

Some ice problems along river and locks

A river and canal ice warning was issued Monday by James A. Petersen, chief, Operations Division, St. Louis Engineer District.

"Navigation interests are being advised that recent low temperatures have resulted in development of adverse ice conditions in the pools and at the St. Louis District locks and dams. Ice accumulations may change significantly depending on future moderation of temperatures," Petersen said.

"Lockages at Granite City Locks No. 27 (1 Mile 18.1 UMR) and Alton Locks and Dam No. 26 (1 Mile 20.9 UMR) are presently being accomplished without major delays or difficulties."

"However, rapidly changing conditions may require restrictions on tow size or modification of lockage procedures.

"All vessel operators making double lockages are requested to arrange barges so that the recoupling point will have rake end barges or rake end barges coupled to bow end barges."

"Broken ice which accumulates between the cuts of a double causes problems and delays when recoupling and this then delays all vessels awaiting lockage."

"Although movement through the pools of Locks No. 27 and Locks and Dam No. 26 is not too difficult, rapidly changing conditions may increase ice accumulations, and movement of ice from the pools is a possibility."

"With this thought in mind, vessel operators may desire to limit the size of their tows as a precautionary measure."

"All interests which may be affected are alerted to the possibility of passing heavy ice through the dams if conditions warrant such action."

"When the passage of ice appears likely, notice will be given as far in advance as is possible."

"Lockages at Lock No. 24 (1 Mile 27.4) and Lock No. 25 (1 Mile 24.4) are extremely difficult at this time because of ice conditions. Movement in these pools is a problem, with vessels pushing only two barges experiencing great difficulty."

Evening Aglow to meet Monday

The Bi-Cities Evening Aglow, an areawide non-denominational fellowship group, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Sunset Hills Holiday Inn, Interstate 270 and Illinois 157.

The guest speaker will be Sister Elizabeth Farrior of Faith Tabernacle, St. Louis, an evangelist.

A special music will be provided by Helen Howell, a former leader singer with a rock band who now sings gospel music.

Area residents are invited to attend any of the Evening Aglow meetings, which take place on the second Monday of each month.

VISITOR INJURED
Frank Douglas, 32, Glen Carbon, was injured when the vehicle he was driving was struck from behind and he sought treatment at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 12:35 p.m. Monday. He suffered pain to his back and shoulders and was released after X-rays were taken.

Information given to census taker will remain confidential

Confidentiality will be emphasized in the 20th decennial census of population and housing, which will officially begin on Tuesday, April 1, 1980.

The Census Bureau will count all residents of the U.S., Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Trust Territories of the Pacific Islands.

The census is expected to count approximately 222 million people and 86 million housing units.

Data will be compiled for 3,200 counties; 20,000 incorporated villages, towns and cities; 37,000 county subdivisions; 45,000 census tracts; 300,000 enumeration districts and block groups; and 2,500,000 city blocks.

The Constitutional purpose of the census has not changed since the first census in 1790: to provide the basis for fair apportionment among the states of seats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Census data also guides the distribution of billions of dollars in federal funds to state and local governments and the distribution of additional billions of dollars in state funds.

Every household here and elsewhere in the U.S. will receive a census questionnaire in the mail on March 28.

and will be asked to answer the questions. About 90 percent of the households will be asked to mail back their completed questionnaires.

The remaining 10 percent—primarily those in sparsely settled areas—will be instructed to keep their completed questionnaires until census takers pick them up.

Those households that do not mail back the completed questionnaires as requested will be visited by census takers who will obtain the required information. Every one percent of the population that cooperates with the request to mail back the completed questionnaires will save taxpayers $2 million in follow-up costs.

Most of the 1980 census questions were asked during the 1970 census, including subjects such as age, race, sex, marital status, type of housing unit, education, and occupation. This census will gather more information about racial and ethnic origin, national energy usage, and journey-to-work patterns.

While federal law (Title 13 of the U.S. Code) requires everyone to answer the census, the same law assures that every person's answers to the census are confidential.

Only Census Bureau employees, sworn to secrecy, may see individual census answers, and there has never been a proven case of a census employee divulging personal information from a census.

Not even another federal agency or the president can see individual census answers, whatever the purpose.

The Census Bureau strictly adheres to Title 13. All census information must be handled with absolute confidentiality.

The following questions and answers highlight the Census Bureau's commitment to protect the public—all persons and business organizations whose names appear on census questionnaires—from unauthorized disclosure:

Q. Does the name and/or address of anyone on a Census Bureau questionnaire go into any government computer, including those of the Census Bureau?

A. No. Q. Are Social Security numbers requested on decennial census questionnaires?

A. No. Q. What guarantee does a person or business organization have that information provided to the Bureau, in censuses and surveys, is kept confidential?

A. According to Title 13, United States Code, information furnished to the Census Bureau can be used only for statistical purposes and cannot be published or released in any manner which could identify any person or business firm.

This law prohibits access to individual census returns by anyone except sworn employees of the Census Bureau.

The law calls for a prison term of five years and a fine of $5,000 for a violation of this secrecy provision by any census employee. Everyone who works for the Bureau, even temporarily, must take an oath not to disclose personal information and is subject to this law.

Q. Has there ever been a case proven where confidential information has been disclosed by a census employee against the law?

A. No. In fact, no employee has ever been formally charged with a violation of the law.

Q. How does the Census Bureau protect personal information collected in the Decennial Census of Population and Housing?

A. The original census forms are photographed on microfilm that is kept under strict security in protected buildings. The information can be retrieved only by authorized persons. The original forms are maintained under tight security, accessible only to sworn Census Bureau employees, until processing is complete. Then the forms are shredded, dissolved in acid, and recycled into pulp.

Q. How long is census information kept confidential?

A. For 72 years. Then the microfilm census records are turned over to the National Archives for permanent storage. People interested in researching their family background often use these old census records.

Q. What kind of protection is given to confidential facts collected in the Bureau's other surveys, such as the economic censuses which cover American business firms?

A. The census forms filled out during the economic censuses are kept under tight security. Only sworn Census Bureau employees have access to them.

Q. When results of an economic census are published, is it not possible to pinpoint a particular enterprise in a small area even without the name or address?

A. No. The computer is programmed not to produce statistics which might allow identification of a firm or corporation under such circumstances. Q. Do other federal agencies or courts have the legal power to obtain confidential information about individuals from the Census Bureau for purposes of taxation, investigations, prosecution, etc.?

A. No. The federal law on confidentiality prohibits the Census Bureau from releasing personal information collected under census law to other federal agencies for any purposes.

Q. If people want information about themselves—proof of age, for instance—can they look at their own past records?

A. Individuals may obtain facts reported about themselves in the population census from the microfilm records at the Bureau's facility in Pittsburgh, Kansas. An individual must present proper identification and pay a small search fee. Anyone who falsifies a name to get information is subject to prosecution.

Q. Has census information always been treated as confidential?

A. No. From 1790 to 1870, there was no law about handling census information in a confidential way. The first such law took effect in 1880, and has been revised since then. It is stricter now than it has ever been.

Madison committee appointed on proposed new apartments

The Madison City Council on Tuesday night approved a mutual cooperation agreement with the Madison County Housing Authority (MCHA) to pursue the building of 10 new housing units either in Venice or Madison.

Casper Nighossian, city attorney for Madison and MCHA attorney, told the council Tuesday evening that the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) has notified MCHA it may approve the apartment.

The location for the units would either be in Madison or Venice. Eight units would be for elderly and two for handicapped.

"The county housing authority has quite a bit of property in Venice and the ten units may be placed there," Nighossian said. "This has come to the housing authority rather fast and the location will be decided at a later date."

He stressed that the city is under no obligation other than to cooperate with the MCHA study.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk appointed Aldermen Don Reeves, William Gunther and Don Garrett as a liaison committee with the housing authority.

The same agreement was tabled by the Venice Council, at its Jan. 29 meeting, and on next Monday.

Part of Madison is in a federally designated flood plain and new construction or large scale remodeling of structures will have to meet federal building regulations, it was said.

Maps of Madison were reviewed by the council.

It was noted that for the immediate future this would have little effect on the city.

Parts of the Fifth Ward are in the federally determined flood plain area, a description which omits apparent consideration of the extensive levee system.

Legal descriptions of the area affected were published in the Sept. 20 and Sept. 27 issues of the Press-Record.

A discussion was held on the increased number of false burglar alarms sounding. It was noted that apparently some merchants forget to turn them off before entering, or fail to check them properly at night.

Chief of Police Donald Bridick, in reviewing the police report, said he thinks Madison police officers are doing an outstanding job. Chief Bridick also praised the public for cooperation in helping the police.

"A very fine article appeared in a national police magazine about our Explorers sponsored by the police club. I think that Mick (Stranger) is doing a fantastic job for our youth with the Explorers and we all owe him a debt of gratitude," Mayor Sasyk said.

"The police club (Police Benevolent and Protective Association 110) sponsoring the Explorers should also be congratulated for the help they give Mick and the Explorers," Sasyk commented.

New library book selection method

The Granite City Public Library, 2001 Delmar Ave., is inviting all interested persons in the community to participate in a unique book selection process called the Public's Choice Program.

In cooperation with a major publisher, the library has on loan a selection of new titles in the areas of arts, crafts and hobbies.

Included are books on photography, home canning and preserving, painting and drawing, needlework, model railroad, gardening and many other topics.

At the special display area in the library, patrons will find ballots that list all of the titles on display.

By using these ballots, patrons can cast their votes for the books that interest them and that, in their opinion, have merit for the library's collection. The library will determine which books the library purchases.

The book display will be at the main library downtown from Feb. 11 through Feb. 25.

A board of directors meeting at 5:30 p.m. will precede the dinner meeting. Guest speaker for the evening will be Ron Evans of Brighton Painting Company.

MEETING OF WOMEN IN CONSTRUCTION

Belleville Chapter 215 of Women in Construction will hold its monthly dinner meeting at Fischer's Restaurant, 2100 W. Main St., Belleville, at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 12.

A board of directors meeting at 5:30 p.m. will precede the dinner meeting. Guest speaker for the evening will be Ron Evans of Brighton Painting Company.

Parking meters being looted

Someone has a key which will open Granite City's parking meters and has removed the coin boxes and money from 91 meters since Thursday, Jan. 31. The loss to the city is estimated at $2,275, thus far.

Officers are changing the locks on all meters.

When Patrolman Ervin Keunenhoff began his rounds collecting money from parking meters Monday afternoon, he had a rude surprise. Most of the meters from St. Elizabeth Medical Center through the downtown Granite City area were empty.

Figuring the meters average $5 each on collection day, the change lost would amount to $455. The kicker was that the thief also took the aluminum change cans from each meter and the cans cost $20 each to replace. That comes to a total of $1,820 in taxpayer funds to replace the cans alone.

Police are urging anyone who saw anything suspicious around a parking meter to call police and give them full details. Information received will be kept confidential, officers pledged.

Meanwhile, extra precautions will be used by police to protect the meters and to try and catch the person who has the key.

Meters looted are in the downtown area on Delmar and Edison Avenues, State Street, 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st streets, Niedringhaus and Iowa avenues and around Civic Park, across from the medical center.

Police believe the thefts began last Thursday or Friday in the area of the medical center and spread during the weekend into the downtown area.

Dance Friday for Knoblauch

Supporters of David Knoblauch, a candidate for Madison County recorder of deeds, are sponsoring a fund-raiser dance at the Madison County Firemen's Hall, 9510 Collinsville Road, Friday, Feb. 8, from 7:30 p.m. until midnight.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or at any county volunteer fire department, or by calling Knoblauch at 345-7272, a spokesman said.

Recover auto after accident

Joe Spain, 1942 Adams St., reported at 10 p.m. Tuesday that his auto had been stolen from 23rd Street and Grand Avenue.

The owner said the car had broken down at that location and he and a police officer had pushed it from the roadway. Fifteen minutes later, Spain returned to get the 1968 Chevrolet and the vehicle was gone.

The auto was recovered by police on 23rd street, between Cleveland Boulevard and Delmar Avenue, after it is believed to have been involved in a hit and run accident at 11:40 p.m. in the 2200 block of Delmar.

Building condemnation speed-up being sought

Casper Nighossian, assistant city attorney in charge of condemnation cases for Granite City, has been asked to make a "command appearance" before the City Council at its next meeting Feb. 19 to explain why lengthy delays are being experienced between the times buildings are condemned and the times court orders are obtained to raze the structures.

Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward told the council Tuesday night that he had asked Nighossian to attend Tuesday night's session and he had promised to be there but failed to appear.

"I don't want to put him on the spot, but I've been on the spot from some returned to my ward," he said. "He said a burned building at 21st Street and Illinois Avenue was condemned after a fire in May 1979 and Nighossian promised to expedite efforts to obtain a court order to have it torn down."

"I told him the neighbors were highly upset," Decatur said. He said some neighbors feared another fire in the vacant structure could spread to their homes. "A week ago, there was another fire there and the firemen building in question and said he will ask the judge to declare an emergency so it can be demolished immediately."

Asked what part the city's inspection office has in the condemnation process, Dawes said, "All we do is prepare the case and give it to Casper. He files the case and follows through on it."

MAN IS CHARGED AFTER SECOND CALL

Told that a man was lying on the floor of the long Branch Tavern, 2106 Grand Ave., at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, an officer was sent to investigate and summoned an ambulance to take Glen Dixon, 45, of Greenwood Street, Madison, to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

At 5:25 p.m. Tuesday, another officer responded to a call that a pedestrian had been struck by an auto in the 1400 block of Niedringhaus Avenue and found Dixon lying in the street. Some witnesses voiced doubt that the man had been struck by a vehicle, saying he had just fallen down in the street.

He was charged with disorderly conduct and taken to police headquarters.

Hear 'Bourbon Street Minister'

Dr. E. L. Strotheide, a Granite City chiropractor, and three members of his staff, Jane Sartin, Betty Paterson and Dolores Bosworth, have had the opportunity to become acquainted with the Rev. Bob Harrington, internationally known as the "Bourbon Street Minister."

The local residents met the minister while attending a post-graduate study seminar in Las Vegas, Nev. Rev. Harrington spoke to more than 4,000 health care professionals at the seminar concerning his personal experiences with chiropractic care. He also told Dr. Strotheide that he tries to receive at least one chiropractic treatment a week in order to maintain the energy needed to continue his ministry and busy lecturing schedule. Rev. Harrington expressed the opinion that he believes the reason chiropractic is so successful in helping millions of sick people is because "natural methods of treatment are used rather than drugs and surgery," Dr. Strotheide said. In addressing the seminar, the minister headed a group of nationally-known psychologists and lecturers that included Robert S. Mendelsohn, MD, a faculty member at the University of Illinois School of Medicine and author of the current best-seller, "Confessions of a Medical Heretic." Other speakers were Mark O. Haroldsen, a financial planning expert, and Foster Hibbard, a human relations specialist.

'Saturday Night' at St. Paul

St. Paul's Church of the Nazarene will sponsor its "Saturday Night at St. Paul's" program this Saturday at 7:30 at the church, located at 4300 Maryville Road.

Featured entertainers will be The Stepping Stones from Trinity United Methodist Church, a group of youth and young people.

The group has been singing together for three years and has appeared at various churches in the Quad-City area.

The program will be highlighted with "the gospel in music and personal testimony," according to the Rev. Jerry Harris, pastor. Members of The Stepping Stones are David and Mary Bryant, Hope, Karol and Karen Lee, Beth Polillo, David Sartin, Kelly Stotz and Norbert Tate. The public is invited to attend, the minister said.

University Police at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have been directed to crackdown on speeding on the campus, according to Dr. Ria J. Frijters, vice president for business affairs.

"Two students were nearly hit by speeding vehicles last week, and that's too many," Dr. Frijters said Monday. "We must take steps to ensure the safety of our people."

She has directed University Police to expand traffic surveillance, using radar detection equipment — particularly on University Drive, the main north-south artery through the campus.

Dr. Frijters said signs will be erected, warning motorists that radar surveillance is being used. She also announced that state tickets will be issued to violators, which means motorists who are found guilty will lose points on their state driving record. She believes many of the reported speeding violators are "off-campus" persons unfamiliar with the heavy pedestrian traffic which has the right-of-way at the several crosswalks along University Drive. "Whoever the violators are, we must impress on them the dangers of speeding through a campus where thousands of pedestrians are crossing the driveways daily," Dr. Frijters concluded.

Lovejoy coach: 'I don't care what they do.'

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Lovejoy High School of Brooklyn could be in trouble — bad trouble — if the results of an Illinois High School Association "inquiry" prove the school's basketball team violated an IHSA by-law.

Lovejoy is the subject of what IHSA spokesman Jim Flynn calls an "inquiry." Charges have been leveled against Lovejoy that if true, could result in anything from a "slap on the hand" to suspension of the entire school from IHSA activities.

According to the charges, Lovejoy violated an IHSA basketball regulation that states no high school varsity basketball team can participate in more than two invitational tournaments. Lovejoy has played in three: the St. Louis Central Tourney at Thanksgiving, the Wood River Christmas Tourney and the Dupo Tourney.

So the real question is not whether Lovejoy violated the by-law, but what the IHSA is going to do about it. But Lovejoy coach Leon Thomas doesn't seem to care what happens.

"I'm tired of all this b.s.," said Thomas in a phone interview yesterday. "It's just a matter of the area coaches getting together to try and keep us out of the (Dupo) regional." Lovejoy, along with Madison, Venice, East St. Louis, Assumption, Dupo, Columbia and St. Henry of Belleville are entered in the Class A (small school) regional at Dupo.

According to Thomas, the teams interested in keeping his team out of the regional tournament, which begins late this month are Madison and Dupo. "I know it's (Larry) Graham at Madison and the guys at Dupo," he said. "They know we got a chance to win it and they don't want us in it." Madison lost to Lovejoy in the championship game of the Dupo Tourney and the host team was beaten by them in its semi-finals. "Hell, ain't no way Dupo can beat us anyway," said Thomas. "And Madison wouldn't be so anxious to get us out of it if we hadn't beat them. As long as Madison wins, it's ok. But since we beat them, they're out to get us."

"People are acting like we've gone out and stole a government rule or something."

Not a government rule, just the violation of a by-law that provides for two tournaments and 18 games for a variety team during a regular season. "A team can play in one tournament and schedule 21 games," said Flynn. "But according to the by-law, two tournaments in the maximum allowed."

Flynn would not discuss specifics in the allegations, only hypothetical situations, as is IHSA policy in matters concerning alleged violations by member schools. "Violations such as this were proven, the penalty could range anywhere from a mere slap on the hand and a 'don't do it again' to probation or suspension of the entire school from IHSA," said Flynn.

Any decision on the case would most likely be made by Feb. 13, since that is the only scheduled meeting of the IHSA Board of Directors before the start of the Class A regionals.

Madison coach Larry Graham denies Thomas' charges. "I really don't have any reaction to it," he said. "But we're not trying to conspire against anybody. I didn't turn them in."

As to who did notify the IHSA, nobody's talking. "I guess it was (Jerry) Germain (athletic director at Dupo)," said Graham. "After all, it was his tournament they played in last and he'll be hosting the regional."

Dupo officials did contact the IHSA and reported the alleged violation by telephone.

Flynn refused comment on who turned the information over to the IHSA. "Anytime a member school or a teacher at a member school sends us a written complaint, we're obliged to act on it," he said.

Thomas said he's totally in thark about the situation. "Ain't nobody talked to me about it," he said. "The IHSA hasn't contacted me at all."

The Lovejoy coach said he knew nothing about the rule before this season. "I didn't know anything about it," Thomas said. "Heck, I wouldn't risk a whole season on some measly tournament."

"But I don't care what they do," he said. "They can take away the wind we got in one of the tournaments or the championship at Dupo. I don't know what they're gonna do and I don't care. Me and the boys just go ahead and practice same as usual. We ain't gonna cry over it."

"We've had a good season no matter what."

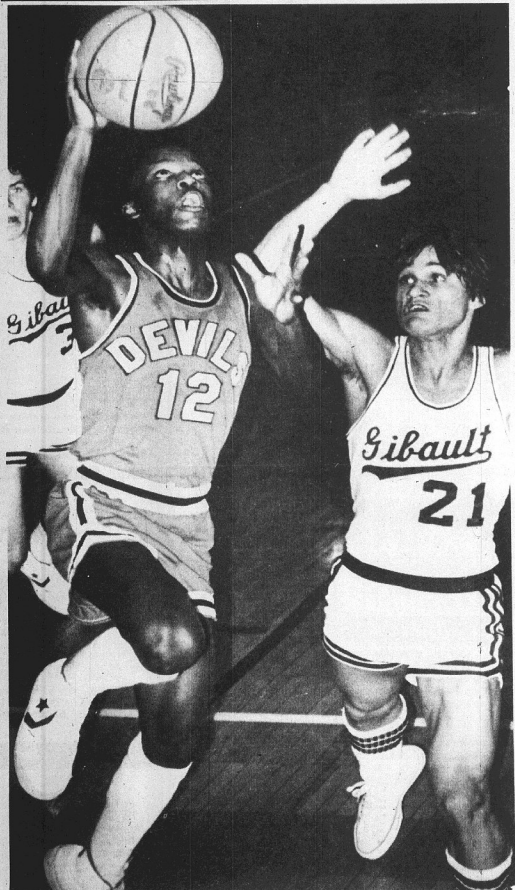

According to Venice coach Ken Perkins, Thomas' attitude about the situation is wrong. "It's totally unacceptable," he said. "If they (the IHSA) don't do anything to them, it's hurting our kids and Madison's and Assumption's. Everybody in the regional. I know my first priority is my players, just like Larry's is to his at Madison and (Lou) Gregory's is at Assumption," said Perkins. "But we don't do it at the expense of everybody else."

If Lovejoy is suspended from all IHSA activities, it won't be all that major of a penalty to the rest of the school. Basketball is the only sport the school has. The enrollment is less than 100.

As worried as area coaches seem to be, they don't expect too much of a penalty against Lovejoy. "I figure they (IHSA) will just slap their wrist," said Graham. "But what ever they do, I have a lot of games to play before we have to worry about Lovejoy." Madison and Lovejoy are paired in opposite brackets in the Dupo Regional, meaning the only time they could meet would be in the championship game.

"I know if I was in their (Lovejoy's) bracket, I'd worry about them." They are. And so, it seems, are a lot of other people around the state.

Trojans destroy Roosevelt

MADISON — Maybe it had been March the gym at Madison would have been full. Maybe if the opponent had been a different team there would have been some excitement.

Maybe if it had been regional tournament time things would have been different.

But Tuesday it was a wintry February night. The Trojans' opponent was hapless Roosevelt. The gym was only about half full. And the game was dull.

Madison won, 93-57. The Trojans ran their season record to 17-4 with the one-sided win, and continued to build toward the regional tournament. Roosevelt, a member of the St. Louis Public High League, held a 9-10 season mark after the game.

"Our man-to-man defense looked pretty good," Madison coach Larry Graham said. "But you really can't tell much from this game. Roosevelt really wasn't that good."

In fact the only roughriding going on in the game was the way the Madison defense handled the Roosevelt Roughrider rather limited offense.

Add to that a Trojan offense that managed 97 points in a game that featured a 26-point scoring birrage in the fourth quarter, and you have the makings for a rout.

About the only answer the roughriders could muster to the Trojans' antics was center Duwayne Anderson, who held Roosevelt in the game, so to speak, before the score got out of hand sometime during the second quarter.

It was no coincidence that in the Trojans highly productive fourth period, Anderson was on the bench after he collected his fifth foul seconds before the buzzer ending the third quarter. (Continued on Page 22)

Venice holds off Gibault

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

WATERLOO — Venice's Donald Gardner filled the basket with 25 points here Tuesday night, but it was his last two that Waterloo Gibault fans will remember. Gardner scored the winning basket with five seconds to go against Waterloo Gibault high to give Venice a 59-57 victory, one that didn't appear to be headed toward the final moments midway through the third quarter.

Venice had opened up a 13-point lead in that third period and, looked to be heading toward a laugh. But a funny thing happened on the way to the winner's circle — Venice stopped making layups.

"It was just like two years ago down here," said Venice coach Ken Perkins. "We had them way down then and we ended up winning by one or two points. We should have put them away early in this one, too."

Indeed. After taking a 27-22 lead into the lockerroom at halftime, Venice proceeded to blow the Hawks away, out-scoring Gibault 12-4 over the next four minutes and taking a 39-26 lead. The Red Devils were ready for more.

But then the shots stopped dropping. And these weren't your 25-foot jumpers, either. These were wide-open under the basket-type layups. There wasn't any one particular culprit, either. ALL the Red Devils were missing. Donald Gardner broke open for back-door plays on five occasions and missed. Kevin and Kerry Roberts, Venice's twin brother guard act, missed. So did Archie Gardner (Donald's brother). And Kevin Wigfall. Everybody got into the act.

The result? Gibault outscored Venice 9-6 over the remaining minutes of the third quarter and 20-14 in the fourth (when the Red Devils did start to warm up a bit from the field) to make it the close game it really shouldn't have been.

As close as Gibault made it, they never took the lead, save a 2-0 spurt at the outset. But Kevin Reinecke, the Hawks' 6'5" center, who has about as many moves as Ex-Lax, tied the game with 19 seconds remaining. He stole an errant Venice pass, and drove the length of the floor for a layup.

But back came Gardner. After stalling out about seven seconds, he took the ball, drove the right baseline and zoomed under the basket for a wide-open layup.

He made it.

With five seconds left on the clock, Gibault had time to get one last shot off, but Maglasang's 55-footer, was nowhere near the hoop. Venice had won.

The game was Venice's first in a week. After being whitewashed last week by O'Fallon Tech of St. Louis, an irate Perkins did not hold practice until the next Monday.

"I attribute some of our coldness to that week off," said Perkins. "But, hey, Gibault's not that bad of a team. They can do some things to you. That Reinecke's a stud inside."

Venice will have a 10-day layoff. Its next game is Feb. 15 at home against St. Louis Central. The win gives the Devils a 13-8 record.

Redbirds pull away

GRANITE CITY — Alton is pulling away from the pack in the Press-Record Collinsville Herald coaches poll on Class AA basketball schools.

The Redbirds, who began the season back in the pack, garnered seven of 10 first place votes cast and finished with 97 points out of a possible 100 this week.

In second place is oncoming, once-beaten East St. Louis Lincoln, which got the other three first place votes. The Tigers' only loss this season was at DeMet of St. Louis in overtime. Lincoln's the top-seeded team in the Collinsville Regional Tournament and will face Granite City South in the first round. Alton is the top seed in its own regional.

Right behind Lincoln is Collinsville, the runner-up seed at its own regional. The Kahoks, while not getting any first place votes, nonetheless did finish with 83 points, six behind Lincoln. One of the reasons for Collinsville's good showing is the slaughtering it gave to Cahokia last week. Cahokia had high hopes going into last Friday's game, especially after upsetting highly-ranked Effingham by one point in the championship game of the Salem Tournament two weeks ago.

But alas, it was not to be. Collinsville won by 17 points. East St. Louis Senior, after a couple of weeks in the runner five spot, returned to fourth and could be beginning its climb toward the top of the poll, where it began the season.

Cahokia is next with 59 points, then fellow-Gateway East Conference school Edwardsville with 46. Then a big drop.

Belleville East and Mascoutah are seven-eight and Wood River and O'Fallon round out the top ten.

In the Class A poll, there is more of a pileup at the top. And how.

Some things never change. That seems to be the case with the Press-Record prep wrestling poll.

Gehling's soccer career 'like a dream'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Keith Gehling of Granite City is a starting defender for the Wichita Wings of the Major Indoor Soccer League. A graduate of GCHS South, Gehling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gehling of Granite City. The following article recently appeared in the Jan. 15 Wichita (Kan.) Beacon newspaper and is reprinted with permission.

By MIKE LIMON
Wichita Beacon Staff

WICHITA — Keith Gehling nervous? No, not much. He ALWAYS plays indoor soccer suspended above the artificial turf on a thin cushion of air. At least he did Sunday night (Jan. 13) in St. Louis before nearly 17,000 fans in the Checkerdome. They might as well of all been relatives, though only a handful really were.

An hour before the game, Gehling didn't act like coming home was going to affect him at all. Once the game got started it was a different story.

"I couldn't hardly feel my feet on the ground those first few minutes," said

KEITH GEHLING
Happy Homecoming

Gehling, a 22-year-old rookie defender for the Wichita Wings, who were matched against the St. Louis Steamers. He may as well have been running in midair. You know, like the commercial where two lovers run across a wide, grassy field in slow-motion, arms outstretched waiting to embrace.

It was like that for Gehling in those early moments Sunday night. He had come home to the St. Louis area as a professional soccer player. It didn't matter that most of those who had crowded into the Checkerdome were cheering for the other team. Keith Gehling felt like all eyes were on him. And he loved it.

"Yeah, I was nervous. With the crowd, things were pretty shaky for all of us at first," said Gehling, whose Wings won 7-5. "But in a way, they actually helped us as much as they did the Steamers. When they're yelling like that it makes you want to perform. You want to do your best."

St. Louis, perhaps more than any other city in America, is a soccer town. Kids play soccer before they even think about another sport. There are more than 1,000 organized teams in the metro area.

seemed unstoppable by the final period, which was little more than shooting practice.

Of course, Madison led 76-38 at the end of three quarters. The only time Roosevelt held the Trojans to a ten point lead was during the first quarter. But after assuming an 18-10 lead going into the second period, Madison busted loose, outscoring the Roughriders 25-17 before the half. That doubled the first quarter lead to 43-27.

The game was all but over the third period as the Trojans' Morris Hughes, playing less than two quarters completed his 15-point performance.

The competition may have been less than superb, but the big win did keep Madison's new-found winning ways on track. And that's what Graham wanted. "We're building a momentum for the regionals," he said. "We still need to develop better guard play and we need to block out better under the boards, but we're still building."

"We haven't been playing that well lately, but hopefully we've got some things straightened out."

quarter.

He took with him 16 points, high total for the Roughriders in the game.

Roosevelt's Walter Johnson followed Anderson in the Roughrider scoring column with 14 points. But most of Johnson's baskets came late in the game against Madison's third string. In fairness, though, the fact that Johnson played with his stomach muscles wrapped with a thick bandage must be mentioned.

Thornburg All-Ivy League

ITHACA, N.Y. — Granite City graduate Eric Thornburg, a player on the Cornell University soccer squad, recently was named to the All-Ivy League soccer team.

Thornburg, a sophomore midfielder, received Honorable Mention on the all-conference team for the 1979 season.

Thornburg was among four Cornell players who received all-league honors. Among them was Kurt Betinger of St. Louis, who was also named as Cornell's Most Valuable Player by the team.

Thornburg was one of 18 players who were given varsity letters last week at the annual soccer awards banquet. Cornell finished last season with a 7-6-2 record.

Thornburg, a 1978 graduate of North, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thornburg of Granite City.

North bowlers going to Ill. State Finals

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North club girls bowling team qualified for this weekend's State Finals by winning the O'Fallon District Meet Saturday.

North, which finished sixth in the state last season, is one of 20 schools which will battle for the team title at the eighth annual State Finals at Town and Country Bowl in Peoria.

Competition will get underway at 9 a.m. Friday. The quarterfinals will be Friday at 2 p.m. Semifinals are 9 a.m. Saturday with championship play set for 1 p.m. the same day.

Besides North, four other teams return from last year. Among them is defending champion Abingdon.

Teams advancing to this year's State Final (with district pinfall) are: Rich Central (5,281), Forest View (5,023), Evergreen Park (5,029), Lemont Twp. (5,023), DeKalb (4,987), Dixon (4,969), Abingdon (4,908), Midlothian (4,795), Octavia (4,743), Warren (4,736), Wheeling (4,729), Conant (4,678), Sycamore (4,634), GRANITE CITY NORTH (4,622), Channahon (4,563), Canton (4,558), Niles North (4,520), Wilmington North (4,479), Aurora West (4,460) and St. Charles (4,323).

This season, a new feature has been added to the State Finals, an individual championship series. The 20 highest scorers from the first round will advance to the quarterfinals in the individual competition. From the quarterfinals, the 10 highest (through two rounds) will advance to the semifinals and the five highest will advance to the finals. In all rounds after the first round, bowlers from teams advancing as well as individuals will be competing for individual honors.

North's Janie Greathouse led the District at O'Fallon District at St. Clair Bowl. She had the high single game with a 221 and high total pinfall with 1,036. Mary Barrington of North was 9th-highest in single game with a 197.

Other members of the team are Tracy Ambuehl, Rhonda Crider, Kay Herman, Christine Herrman, Jackie Hackett and Pamela Damrath. They are coached by Ron Diller.

Amvets soccer squad

GRANITE CITY — Granite City Amvets Post 51 honored its YMCA Pee Wee League championship soccer team here recently.

The first-place trophy was presented to the coach of the team Tony Nance at ceremonies in the P.O.s Home, 5100 Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach by Commander Tait Varner.

At the same time, it was announced that the post will sponsor a team next season, will purchase new uniforms and a donation was made to purchase jackets for team members.

The Amvets also voted to donate $500 to the Crippled Children Society in Venice.

Madison needs softball teams

MADISON — The Madison Softball League is looking for women's teams for play in the coming summer season. Anyone interested in entering a team, or wanting further information may call Sam Dymas at 877-6418 at the Madison Recreation Center.

YMCA cross-country club

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced that it will offer beginner cross country ski clinics this winter as soon as weather permits.

Dawn Mercer will instruct the clinics which will meet on Sunday afternoons from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Horseshoe Lake State Park.

Mercer will teach proper waxing techniques and how to adjust equipment along with how to ski uphill, downhill and on flat surfaces. Also included will be instruction in poleing, turning and stopping.

The cost for the one day clinics will be $3 for YMCA members, and $5 for non-members, or $8 and $12 for families. This does not include the cost of ski-rentals, but the YMCA can provide a price list from nearby businesses which rent equipment. Complete ski packages can be rented for $5 a day at some stores. Anyone interested in the clinics may contact Lucy Tuetz at the YMCA 676-7200.

YMCA swimming

GRANITE CITY — A session for women's swimmers is scheduled to begin Feb. 11 at the Tri-City Area YMCA. The class meets on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 to 9:45.

Lee Suarez teaches the class, which includes 30 minutes of exercise in the pool followed by 15 minutes of open swim. The class runs continuously through the year, and costs $8 per four week session for non-YMCA members. There is no charge for YMCA members. For those interested, there is a women's instructions swim class immediately following Suarez's class. There is a small fee for non-YMCA members for the instruction.

Keith Gehling grew up playing on some of those teams in Granite City, Ill., just across the Mississippi River from the Gateway Arch.

Strange that he would return to St. Louis as a pro playing for a team from Kansas, the land of basketballs and wheat fields.

"I think about that sometimes," he said. "It does seem kind of weird. But the fact that I'm playing pro soccer at all still seems like a dream."

It wasn't until high school that Gehling began to think there might be a future for him in soccer. Before that it was just fun and games. "But I had a coach, Gene Baker, who taught us to love soccer. He tried every way he could to improve us."

Through Baker's motivation, Gehling sought a college where he could play the game and still get a good education. He settled on the beautiful surroundings of the University of Washington in Seattle. That love affair lasted for two years before the pangs of homesickness began to draw him back to the Midwest.

Then it was another two years at Rockhurst College in Kansas City where he drew All-American honors. After graduation, he took a sales job, but he was convinced he was good enough to someday play professionally. That chance came this summer when he heard about the possibility of a pro indoor team coming to Wichita. In October, he and a few friends whizzed down the turnpike for a fling in the Wings' tryout camp. He made an impression on Coach Roy Turner and was invited back for another week of practice with the team.

"It was kind of risky because I had to leave my job," said Gehling. "Luckily, my boss had told me I'd be able to come back if things didn't work out. If he hadn't, I don't know whether I would have tried it."

He did and made the team. "He's shown us he can play and play well," said Turner of Gehling. "He's gotten a lot of confidence as the season has gone along. He can be a good one."

"I feel good about it," Gehling said. "The indoor game has given a lot of Americans a chance to play with some regularity. That's the only way we're going to improve. I'm glad to have gotten the chance. I plan to hold onto it as long as I can."

NOTE: Gehling's last appearance in St. Louis this season will be Sunday, March 9 against the Steamers at 7:05 p.m. in the Checkerdome.

HOT POTATO. Madison's Kerry Guest (left) and Morris Hughes (44) can't seem to find the handle on the basketball Tuesday night in action against St. Louis Roosevelt High. A Roosevelt player is sandwiched in between the two Madison Trojans. Madison easily defeated Roosevelt 93-57.

South girls unbeaten

BELLELEVILLE — The Granite City South girls basketball team raised its record to 7-0 here Tuesday night with a 67-42 thrashing of Gateway East Conference rival Belleville Althoff.

"Our defense was outstanding," said South coach Norm Grote. "Our defense is way ahead of our offense, though."

What Grote was referring to was a habit his Lady Warriors have fallen into of missing layups. "We missed way too many," he said. "And in a close game, you've got to make them."

But the game wasn't close. Even though, as usual, South fell behind at the end of the first quarter. But Grote wasn't worried about the 12-9 deficit. He knew the weapon he was going to spring on Althoff in the second period would provide some dividends.

The press, South, just as it is in most of its games, began using a full-court press in the second quarter and Althoff wilted beneath it. The Warriors out-scored the Crusaders 22-6 in the period and it was all over but the crying.

South was led by all-everything Chris Boyd who scored 26 points. "She's coming along and is playing her best ball of the season," said Grote. "But we got good efforts from everybody."

"I'd say Betty Bulva (16 points, 12 rebounds) had as good a game as anybody. She came in off the bench in the second quarter and got us going."

It is South becoming as good a team as say Collinsville? "I don't know," said Grote. "I'll tell you after Thursday (tonight)."

South plays tough Alton tonight at home with junior varsity preceding the varsity game at 6:30.

'Big three' to battle for GEC championship

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

CAHOKIA — The "Big Three" conference has its "Big Two" and "Little Eight" in football with Ohio State and Michigan's dominance. The Gateway East Conference has the "Big Three" — Little "Two" in wrestling.

With prep wrestling powers Granite City South, Granite City North and Cahokia in the same loop, schools like Edwardsville and Belleville Althoff seem to be the case Friday when the five schools get together at Cahokia for the first — and probably last — JEC wrestling meet.

Weigh-in for wrestlers will be around 3 p.m., with preliminary bouts for unseeded wrestlers starting at 4 p.m. The first round will get underway around 5 p.m.

The reason the inaugural meet will most likely be the last is that all five wrestling coaches in the conference don't like the idea. They'd rather use dual head-to-head records during the regular season to determine the conference champion.

"We just meet too often as it is," said Cahokia coach Russ Baum about the teams in the first-year league. "Besides, the IHSAA only allows a certain number of tournaments during the season. This just wastes one of those allotments, in my opinion."

Baum isn't alone in his opinion. It is shared by the other coaches in the league. Among them are Granite City's two mentors, Walt Whitaker at North and Bill "Red" Schmitt at South.

"We're not too happy with the set-up," said Whitaker. "It seems like the only teams we've seen lately are South and Cahokia." North's Steelers faced South and Cahokia wrestlers in the Granite Christmas Tournament, faced Cahokia in the Quincy Tournament and met South and Cahokia against last week in dual meets.

"With only five teams in the conference, it's hardly worth the effort," said Schmitt. "I think all the coaches would be in favor of abolishing the tournament and go with head-to-head records."

Besides all the meetings between the "Big Three" that have already taken place, there are at least three more on tap counting Friday's Conference Meet. Next Friday and Saturday (Feb. 15-16), the three will be involved in the District Meet and the survivors from there (and the three will most likely have several) could again meet on the sectional level, not to mention the remote possibility of some facing each other on the floor of the Assembly Hall in Champaign at the State Finals Feb. 29 and March 1.

Schmitt said that when South was in the Southwestern Conference (where the Warriors never failed to win the team title), the conference title was decided at a tournament, but that it was different. "There were seven teams in the conference then," he said. "And most were pretty respectable," he said. "But in the Gateway, there are really only three tough teams."

"Not to sell the other kids short, though," Schmitt said. "Edwardsville has one or two that could do well. But Althoff just doesn't have anybody who can compete."

As far as the team title goes, South seems to be the pre-meet favorite. The Warriors defeated both North and Cahokia in dual meets this season. North could pull it out and seems a sure-bet for at least second.

Cahokia started out the season like a ball of fire, but has declined since Christmas. "We finished nearly 30 points ahead of North in the Christmas Tourney," said Baum. "But then they beat us by about 16 in the Quincy Tournament (in January) and then really whipped us last Saturday."

North's Steelers, coming off the tough dual Thursday with South, destroyed Cahokia 38-15 with ease. "It was embarrassing," said Baum. "And it's one reason I don't like to meet them (North) again so soon. It's not good for the kids to wrestle the same kids week after week."

I think we've got a good shot for the team title," said Whitaker. "We came on strong over the weekend after losing to South."

Among the contenders for individual championships will be Dean Perkins (145), Scott Polson (167), Greg Garland (112), Rodney Lupardus (132) and Randy Lupardus (119) from South, Mike Robinson (98), Steve Smith (105), Jerry Miller (112), Tracy Patton (183), Bob Kirgan (126) and Kevin Shemwell (138) from North, and Mark Lambert (126), Kevin Bement (145), Frank Bergman (167) and Keith Creas (heavyweight) from Cahokia.

A Lorenzen-Kirgan clash at 126 would produce one of the most interesting matchups of the meet. The two have defeated each other once and tied Saturday. "We thought the seeding would be decided Saturday when they met," said Baum. "But they tied and threw that out the window."

There are 20 boys currently in the Granite City club, according to Mendoza. The youngest is 12 years old. They work out Monday through Friday from 7 until 8:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Plaza Community Center.

Mendoza said his club also plans to enter more boxers on the card Feb. 18 at the monthly Belleville Boxing Club fights, at the Bell-Clair Fairgrounds and in the Golden Gloves competition which begins Feb. 20 at Electricians' Hall in St. Louis.

Granite City — At least one Granite City boxer, and possibly more, will fight this Saturday on the North County Boxing Club card at the Civic Memorial Center in Florissant, Mo.

Jack Rainey, an 18-year-old 140 pound welterweight from Granite City is the Granite City Boxing Club's first entry on a card, since the club was formed several months ago. Rainey will definitely be entered and there is a possibility that two more local fighters will be added to the card before Saturday, according to Mercy Mendoza, the club's coach.

Superstar visits SIU Salukis tonight

CARBONDALE — Wes Unseld, Larry Bird, Deni Meminger, Austin Carr. All of the above are names of great college basketball players who have paid visits to the SIU Arena and tonight (Feb. 7), another name can be added to that list.

When Southern Illinois University hosts Drake in a 7:35 p.m. Missouri Valley Conference game that day, the Bulldogs will be led by 6-6 forward Lewis Lloyd, a junior transfer from New Mexico Military who already has experts comparing him to Bird, Oscar Robertson and other all-time Valley greats.

"There's no doubt that Lewis Lloyd is a 'franchise' player," Southern Illinois head coach Joe Gottfried says of Lloyd, who was second in the nation in both scoring (30.8 points per game) and rebounding (15.1 per game) last week. "He can hurt you in so many ways. He's everything he is in the preseason."

In Drake's 116-91 win over the Salukis at Des Moines last month, Lloyd more than lived up to his advance billing and hurt SIU in almost every way possible. The Philadelphia native connected on 15 of 19 shots from the field and finished with 38 points. He also had 10 rebounds and dished out five assists.

"We're going to have to do a better job of containing him this time," Gottfried says. "It's encouraging to see how our defense has improved over the last few games, and in a game as critical as this one, we're going to have to be much better than we were the last time. For us to stay in the running for a place in the Valley Tournament, we have to win this game."

When Southern Illinois University hosts Drake in a 7:35 p.m. Missouri Valley Conference game that day, the Bulldogs will be led by 6-6 forward Lewis Lloyd, a junior transfer from New Mexico Military who already has experts comparing him to Bird, Oscar Robertson and other all-time Valley greats.

"There's no doubt that Lewis Lloyd is a 'franchise' player," Southern Illinois head coach Joe Gottfried says of Lloyd, who was second in the nation in both scoring (30.8 points per game) and rebounding (15.1 per game) last week. "He can hurt you in so many ways. He's everything he is in the preseason."

Meet tonight to discuss sewer taxes

A special meeting for persons included in the taxing district for new sanitary sewers being constructed in Nameoki Township, who do not feel they should be in the district, has been called for 7 p.m. today in the Nameoki Town Hall, 4250 Highway 162.
Supervisor Harold Davis, who called the meeting, explained that his office has received numerous complaints from residents of several areas who are in the sewer taxing district and who either already are served by Granite City sewers, or who will not receive sewers under the county program but will be taxed for the sewers.
"As supervisor of the township, it is my job to see that these people are treated fairly, and it does not seem to me that they are getting what they deserve. I have no political motives for calling this meeting. I just believe it is part of my job to try and help township residents solve their problems," Davis told the Press-Record.
State law and the terms of the ordinance under which $5 million in general obligation bonds were sold to pay for the local share of constructing the sewer prohibit anyone in the sewer taxing district from detaching from the district. Yet, several areas already have sanitary sewers, including homes on Pine Street, in the Steelcrest Subdivision and the Gerbe Addition.
"I don't know if we can do anything for these people, but I think we can, at least, sit down and talk about it," Davis said.

East St. Louis man arrested

What started as a regular shoplifting arrest ended with an East St. Louis man facing two charges here and being held on a warrant for Madison County authorities.

William J. Gray, 45, allegedly left the Shop-N-Save grocery in Belleme Village Shopping Center with a bag containing 14 cartons of cigarettes.

The store manager described his car to police and then pointed out the car, which was on Nameoki Road at Johnson Road. Police stopped the car and asked the driver where he had been. He allegedly said he had just been to Reese Drug Store in Belleme Village.

In the back seat of the car, officers alleged finding the 14 stolen cartons of cigarettes and two bottles of cologne, which had Reese's label on them.

A routine check of records indicated Gray's driver's license was suspended and he was being sought by Madison County authorities on a warrant alleging deceptive practice and setting his bond at $300.

He was charged by Granite City police with driving on a suspended license and theft and was held for sheriff's deputies.

LOOT PISTOL RANGE

A $100 police bullhorn was stolen from a cabinet at the Granite City Police pistol range on the property of the Granite City Army Installation, it was discovered Monday. A bathroom window was opened and the screen removed to gain entry to the building. The locked cabinet where the bullhorn was kept then was forced open. An orange stocking cap with a gold stripe was left at the scene and is being held for evidence.

Coverage and cost of winter Olympics boom

If a time machine were to whirl us back to the resort of Innsbruck, Austria, on Jan. 29, 1964, we would find a town consumed with pomp and circumstance. On that day, Innsbruck welcomed the world with opening ceremonies of the IX Winter Olympic Games. It was also the beginning of the relationship between ABC Sports and the Olympics.

From Innsbruck to Grenoble, back to Innsbruck and soon Lake Placid, ABC has televised many of the great moments in winter Olympics history. Beginning this week (Feb. 12-24), ABC will provide 51 hours of coverage during the XIII Winter Olympic Games. Here are some highlights of past games:

In 1964, ABC dipped its feet into Olympic waters for the first time, but did not come unprepared. Having covered events like skiing, bobsledding, figure skating, speed skating and ski jumping, ABC came to winter Olympics coverage with impressive credentials. The major problem was the six-hour time difference between New York and Innsbruck. For the opening ceremonies, ABC used a communications satellite, a step that was to revolutionize Olympics coverage.

The IX Winter Olympic Games saw the United States win only one gold medal. Michigan barber Terry McDermott scored an upset in the 500-meter speed skating competition to win the sole U.S. gold medal. For the first time since 1936, the United States failed to win a gold medal in figure skating — a result of the tragic plane crash in 1961 in which the entire U.S. team was killed.

Four years later, the games moved to Grenoble, France. ABC made considerable use of the Early Bird satellite so that events were seen by U.S. viewers the same day they took place. It was the first time a sports event originating outside of this country was seen live here. Another first was the fact that the telecasts were almost totally in color. A development by ABC, IBM and Omega showed the audience the "time to beat" in a given event.

The brightest star of the Grenoble games was Frenchman Jean Claude Killy, who became the second man in history to win all three Alpine skiing gold medals. The Parisian French crowd was ecstatic. Another winner of the Grenoble games was willowy Peggy Fleming, who took the gold in figure skating.

Eight years after Grenoble, ABC returned to Innsbruck. Although only a dozen years separated the two Olympics, ABC's technical advancements were progressive. For the first time, ABC was able to provide top-to-bottom coverage of an Alpine event, the now famous run by Franz Klammer.

Who will ever forget the engaging smile of West Germany's Rudi Mittermaier, humble when she won her first two gold medals and gracious when she barely lost her third. There was bubbly Dorothy Hamill who captured a gold medal in figure skating and revolutionized women's hairstyles with her Hamill cut. A determined and powerful Sheila Young garnered three speed skating medals to make her mark in Olympic history.

Coverage has been accompanied by astronomical costs. Rights to provide coverage of the winter Olympics have escalated from $200,000 in 1964 to $2 million in 1968 and $10 million in 1976. The 1980 rights cost $15.5 million.

The cost of advertising during the winter Olympics has grown from $41,000 per commercial minute in 1968 to $135,000 for the 1980 Games. The number of advertisers involved in the Winter Olympics has also increased. In 1968, seven major advertisers were involved; in 1976, there were 15 and for the 1980 games, 25 advertisers each have committed at least $800,000 in advertising time.

The national ratings have grown with the importance of the event. In 1968, for example, the average ratings were 11.8 with a 27 percent share, but in 1976, the ratings jumped to 19.4 with a 35 percent share of the audience. It is estimated that 180 million people will watch some portion of the winter Olympics during the coming two weeks, approximately 85 percent of the total U.S. population.

MONDAY

While Michael (Larry Breeding) is confined to a wheelchair, he is witness to a "murder," on "The Last Resort," Monday, Feb. 11, on CBS.

WEDNESDAY

It's almost Valentine's Day, and even those marathon sweeties Popeye and Olive Oyl celebrate the occasion, in the animated special, "The Popeye Valentine Special: Sweethearts at Sea," Wednesday, Feb. 13, on CBS.
